

Ohio, 40 Other States, Planning Teen-Age Draft In April

WASHINGTON (AP)—Forty-one states, including Ohio, will draft 19-year-olds for military duty in April, and two others may have to, an Associated Press survey showed today.

For 14 of these 41 states, it will be the first draft of 19-year-olds since World War II.

The survey of state selective service directors also found that all but two states, Alabama and

South Carolina, probably will be taking 19-year-olds in May. The Alabama director said it will be June, perhaps later, before any will be drafted in his state. The South Carolina director said he didn't know when.

The other three states that won't take 19-year-olds in April are Maryland, Vermont and Virginia. New Jersey and Tennessee directors said "maybe not."

Thirteen states plan to call 19-year-olds to fill at least 50 per cent of their April draft quotas. Probably the biggest number will come from Illinois where the state director estimated the "bulk" of a 3,254 quota would be 19-year-olds. Pennsylvania will need about 2,500 of a 4,081 quota. California comes third with about 2,000 of 3,164.

The April draft quota for the whole country is 53,000.

The present draft age is 18½ to 26. Draft boards have been taking first the oldest men they have. Until January state directors had been ordered to take no 19-year-olds.

The reason some states are taking 19-year-olds and some aren't results from the variation in available manpower to fill their quotas.

The actual number of 19-year-olds the states need to fill April quotas, the AP survey showed, varies widely.

Massachusetts, with a 1,262 quota, will need "substantially

all" 19-year-olds, as will Arizona with a 243 quota, the District of Columbia with a 218 quota and Oregon with a 350 quota.

Eleven states—Georgia, Indiana, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, Missouri, North Dakota, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming—say a small percentage of their quotas will be 19-year-olds.

In the following states, over 50 per cent of the listed quotas will be 19-year-olds:

Arkansas, 940 quota; Michigan, 2,527; New Hampshire, 151; Nevada, 48; New Mexico, 280; Rhode Island, 197; and Texas, 2,876.

In the following, about 25 per cent of the quotas will be 19-year-olds:

Florida, about 850 quota; Idaho, 248 quota; Kansas, 740 quota; Kentucky, 1,350 quota and Louisiana 892 quota. North Carolina expects to take 700 of a 1,672 quota; Oklahoma, 500 of a 1,300 quota; and Colorado, 100 of a 336 quota.

No estimate of the number was made for Ohio, Connecticut, Delaware, Iowa, Montana, South Dakota, Utah or Washington, but each of them will be taking some 19-year-olds.

Rent Control Extension OK'd By Eisenhower

GOP Leaders Report RFC To Be Allowed To Die Natural Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) said today President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders have agreed to extend the present rent control law until Oct. 1.

The leaders also agreed to let the Reconstruction Finance Corp. die June 30, 1954. That is the date the government's big lending agency is due to go out of business under present law.

Rent controls will expire April 30 unless extended by Congress. The present law provides for rent ceilings on more than 5½ million housing units, including those in critical defense areas and in cities where local governments have requested ceilings.

Martin said on leaving a conference with Eisenhower and congressional leaders that an extension to Oct. 1 would serve as notice to the individual states that after that date the federal government would step out, except in critical defense areas.

IN AVIATOR'S language, a good landing is any landing that the aeronaut walks away from. That makes this landing of a Navy plane on an Annapolis, Md., house a "good" one. Although the twin-engine PBV ripped into two houses, tearing out the roof and sidewalk from one and seriously damaging the other, no one was hurt and the two Navy fliers aboard the craft walked away from the wreckage. One of the demolished houses is in the background.

Deputies Stay With Mary Ruff In Jail Here

Mary Agnes Ruff, 34, of Ashville Route 2, who will go on trial here in two weeks on an accusation of murdering her husband, was back in Pickaway County jail Monday after six weeks in Berger hospital. A deputy sheriff is constantly with her in the jail.

Judge William D. Radcliff ordered the pretty, red-haired farm wife returned to jail Saturday on the basis of a special medical report and an agreement reached by opposing attorneys.

Pickaway County Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff and one of three deputies assigned to Mrs. Ruff accompanied her on the trip from the hospital.

Only hitch in the arrangements was a short delay in the hospital while the Sheriff awaited necessary release papers. He declined to accept a verbal release and required a signed paper.

Midsouth Hit By Tornadoes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Midsouth was struck by a series of tornadoes and windstorms Sunday, leaving one dead, at least five injured and property damage estimated at more than $1 million.

The twisters raked across the same general sections in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee that were ravaged by tornadoes a year ago this week end, causing $30 million damage and killing 221 persons.

Did Tom Cat Walk 1,800 Miles Home?

GAGE, Okla. (AP)—Meowrrrr!!!

The S. A. Woods family saw a vaguely familiar cat crawl feebly into their yard and stared. Was this Tommy?

It was!

The family cat had hiked, or hitchhiked, his way back to Gage from California, a distance of 1,500 miles as a cat walks.

Of course it could have been a stray who just happened to look like Tommy. Just because he answered to his name was no positive proof. This bedraggled ball of fluff which still retained a trace of its bright yellow coat would have had to average over 84 1/3 miles a month during his 18-month absence to walk the distance. That's over two miles a day, without the aid of a compass, navigation equipment or radar.

So the Woods clan checked. When Tommy was a kitten he had suffered a broken right hip. A physical check revealed this animal had a bad hip.

Woods still wouldn't believe it. He called the woman in California who was supposed to be taking care of Tommy. She said the cat had disappeared a few days after he was put into her care 18 months ago.

Woods and his family were in California then. They had moved there from Gage, but decided, after a year of living on the coast, they longed for their Oklahoma farm. They left the cat in California.

In 18 months Woods and the children had all but forgotten their old pet. Then: "Meowrrrr!!!"

Former Egyptian Queen Back Home

CAIRO (AP)—Ex-Queen Narriman, pale, tired and leaning on her mother's arm came home to Egypt by plane from Switzerland before dawn today.

Returning to her homeland as a private citizen, the estranged wife of former King Farouk was met by a small group of her family. She will live at her mother's home in suburban Heliopolis. She confirmed only that she is separated from Farouk, although plans for a divorce have been rumored for several weeks. Her baby son is with Farouk in Rome.

Baruch Says Standby Curbs Ruling Needed

Lack Of Law Labeled 'Tragic Neglect' By Famed Financier

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch said today if war comes and finds the government unprepared to clamp on immediate economic controls, "there will not be a person alive who will not bitterly rue this tragic, needless neglect."

Urging the administration and Congress get together on a standby economic controls law, or Congress do it alone if necessary, the New York financier and adviser to presidents said:

"The next war—and all of us pray it will be avoided—is likely to explode in a big smash. Cities may be all but obliterated. Who knows where Congress will be?"

"You face a simple issue," Baruch said in a statement to the Senate Banking Committee. "Are we to take the elementary precaution of writing into law now what we know would have to be done in event of emergency?"

"Or shall we neglect this vital measure of defense and, in doing so, increase the risk of war, add to the toll of dead and wounded if war does come and make inflation certain—all needlessly?"

Ike Standing Pat On Bohlen As Next Envoy To Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) reported today President Eisenhower is standing pat on his nomination of Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen to be ambassador to Russia.

Taft, the Senate majority leader, and Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) of the Foreign Relations Committee had a private meeting with Eisenhower after the regular Monday morning conference of GOP congressional leaders.

Afterward, Taft said there had been "no change" in the position of the President, Wiley, or himself on the nomination.

"We are going right ahead with it," Taft said. He added Senate debate would get underway today.

The nomination has been under a fire by GOP Sens. McCarthy of Wisconsin and Bridges of New Hampshire. It also has been sharply criticized by Democratic Sen. McCarran of Nevada.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) said there was no discussion of Bohlen at the regular legislative conference.

But Bridges, another of those in attendance, renewed his opposition after the meeting broke up. He and other opponents still were fighting a rearguard action.

McCarran said he has a "chestful" of information for his colleagues about Bohlen, and McCarthy was asking for a delay in a showdown vote. Both have demanded closer scrutiny of an FBI security checkup on the appointee's background.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, predicted that a substantial majority of his party members will vote to confirm Bohlen.

Taft said he won't demand a vote

today but indicated he wants action by midweek at the latest.

Taft's attitude indicated Bohlen's critics won't have much luck in efforts to recall Secretary of State Dulles and to get testimony from R. W. Scott McLeod, State Department security officer.

McCarthy and McCarran have contended Dulles cleared Bohlen over McLeod's objection when the secretary appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which approved Bohlen, 15-0, last week. Dulles said in testimony released Sunday that he cleared Bohlen when McLeod "did not wish to take the responsibility" and passed the case on up to him.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), not a foreign relations committee member, said McLeod should be summoned to "speak for himself."

Indonesia Aide Defeated In Pushing Idea

Lodge Shuns Proposal Originated By Poles, Says It 'Insincere'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. S. and the Soviet bloc jointly killed today an Indonesian move which that Asian country claimed might speed peace talks between U. S. President Dwight Eisenhower and Russian Premier Georgi Malenkov.

L. N. Palar of Indonesia asked the UN's 60-nation Political Committee to move up a Polish item called "methods for avoiding a third world war" to top place on its agenda. He said it should be possible to have serious peace talks in connection with a item bearing that title.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. labelled the Polish plan "an insincere and rather cynical proposal" and said it would increase tension rather than ease it.

Polish Foreign Minister Stanislaw Skrzyszewski said he was not prepared to discuss his own plan at this time. On the contrary, he declared, Poland was ready to go ahead with Czech charges of American espionage activities behind the Iron Curtain. Discussion on that subject was originally scheduled for today.

PALAR, FACED by opposition from both East and West, then withdrew his suggestion. In proposing it he had told the committee he had been informed such an agenda change might "greatly facilitate" peace chances. He made the statement immediately after saying he would like to see Chief Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky take personal part in the debate.

Vishinsky is scheduled to arrive here Thursday from Moscow, and there has been considerable speculation he is bringing fresh instructions from the new Malenkov regime in the Kremlin.

Palar's move had been inter-

2 Ships Bring Japs Back To Their Homes

MAIZURU, Japan (AP)—A second repatriation ship, Takasago Maru, arrived today from Shanghai with 1,959 Japanese nationals stranded in China since the end of World War II.

The first group of 2,009 men, women and children arrived in a pelting rain early today from Chingwangtao, Manchuria, aboard the Koan Maru.

By midsummer, some 25,000 Japanese, some held as long as 16 years, are scheduled to be returned from China.

Swarms of newsmen who boarded the Koan Maru today from fishing launches heard conflicting stories of life in Communist China. Some returnees wept for joy at the sight of their homeland. Others defiantly spouted Red propaganda.

Some repatriates talked freely. Others glowered, close-mouthed.

Some described Red China as a paradise; others told of being driven at pistol point to work in Communist factories.

Almost all said Red China was conducting a successful war against germs and flies.

Some said the Communists taught them that South Korea invaded North Korea and that U. S. troops are waging germ warfare in Korea. They blamed the U. S. for the breakdown of truce talks.

Great Lakes Ice Due For Breaking

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coast Guard vessels start breaking shipping lanes this week through ice 14 to 20 inches thick in the St. Mary's River.

Should warm weather prevail throughout the week, the Coast Guard predicts the first ice vessels will enter the river on Saturday in one of the earliest openings of Great Lakes navigation in years. Great Lakes boats have to pass through the St. Mary's from the lower lakes to enter Lake Superior.

Truman Praises Bohlen's Ability

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Citizen Harry Truman, at a press conference Sunday, praised Charles E. Bohlen, ambassador to Russia, as "a very capable person, a fine man. I know him well."

Truman, his wife and their daughter, Margaret, then sailed for a 30-day vacation in the Hawaiian Islands aboard the liner President Cleveland.

Liquor Agent Is Cleared Of Misconduct

CLEVELAND (AP)—Authorities today cleared state Liquor Agent Fred R. Wiggin, 52, who was cruelly beaten in his hotel room, of any suspicion of official misconduct.

Detective Cap. David E. Kerr announced Donald J. Cardell, 24, of Pittsburgh, now admits he sneaked into Riggins' Hotel Hollenden room when he saw the door ajar, and beat and robbed Riggins of from $60 to $70.

That was different than the first version Cardell gave.

When he was arrested just four hours after the beating, he claimed Riggins invited him to his room and that the two were drinking together.

Kerr said Cardell told him they then got into an argument over who owed for drinks wagered in a bar bowling machine game and that he slugged Riggins.

Riggins was transferred here Friday from the Portsmouth enforcement district. He is a native of Wilmington.

Police charged Cardell today with unarmed robbery.

City Policemen To Have Pistol Shoot Monday

Circleville's police will have their first pistol-shooting tournament in remembered history of the department next Monday afternoon.

The tournament will be held on the third floor of City Hall, where there is a steel-backedstopper range already set up.

A trophy for the department champion has been donated by Mayor Ed Amey. The trophy, about 20 inches tall, shows a uniformed man shooting a pistol.

Aimed to stimulate target practice within the department, officers will use their own .38's and their own ammunition. All members of the department are requested to enter the contest.

Mayor Amey has been named rangemaster for the event. Each man will fire about 20 shots in the contest.

3 Yankees Held By China Reds

HONG KONG (AP)—Three Americans seized with their yacht were held by Communist China today as high British and American officials tried to figure out a move to free them.

The 42-foot yawl Kert, with its six occupants, was taken in tow Saturday by an armed Communist junk between Hong Kong and Macau, five miles west of British-owned Lantau Island. The Americans are Richard Applegate of Medford, Ore., correspondent for the National Broadcasting Co., Donald Nixon of New York, International News Service correspondent; and Benjamin Krasner, Brooklyn ship captain.

Visiting Policeman Held In Shooting

TOLEDO (AP)—Paul R. Cox, a vacationing Detroit motorcycle policeman, stopped a car which cut in front of him Sunday by firing a shot into its dashboard.

When he heard about it, Detroit Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard indicated he was less than pleased. Leonard, saying he intended a "full investigation," held Cox had no right to carry a gun outside Detroit. Cox told Toledo police George C. Jones, 28, of Monroe, Mich., cut in front of the policeman's car repeatedly over a 10-mile stretch. Finally, he lost his temper and fired.

Leading French Painter, 75, Dies

PARIS (AP)—French painter Raoul Dufy died today at the age of 75, the French news agency announced. He had been a long-time sufferer from arthritis.

One of the famous "Fauves" (wild beasts) whose bright colors helped to revolutionize modern art early in this century, Dufy died, apparently in his sleep, before dawn at his home in Forcalquier, a village south of Avignon in Southern France.

3 Plants Given Discharge Permits

Central Foundry Division of the General Motors Corp., Defiance; Bryan Tankage Co. and the Wauson Fertilizer Co.

Only Three Killed In Ohio Traffic

COLUMBUS (AP)—The first week end of spring brought fine weather and heavy traffic on Ohio's highways — and only three traffic deaths. It was the best record this year.

A tragic fire took the lives of three small children in Columbus.

U.S. Dairymen Told Adjust To Markets

CHICAGO (AP)—The U. S. secretary of agriculture told dairymen today if they adjust their production to the markets and do a good selling job "the surplus problem will be gone."

The secretary, Ezra Taft Benson, summed up his views:

"There is no over-all surplus of dairy products. Actually there exists a great shortage of milk to meet our full needs."

"What we have is a lack of adjustment to the markets—so that not all of the butter, cheese and dried milk is being consumed. If the adjustments are made and milk and milk products are backed by the selling that their merits justify, the surplus problem will be gone."

Benson was booked to address the American Dairy Association at a time when farmers are worried by a downward slide in farm prices and the dairy industry is confronted with a surplus of such commodities as butter.

24 Said Drowned

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Twenty-four passengers, including eight women and five children, died Saturday when a 73-ton launch sank after hitting a reef off southwest Formosa.

Lad, 15, Hurt In Bike Crash

A Circleville schoolboy was injured early Monday when he rode his bicycle into an auto.

He is Charles Hill, 15, son of Mrs. Ethel Tobin of Circleville Route 3, treated in Berger hospital for a fractured collarbone and injuries of his left side and right hand.

Police Chief Elmer Merriman said the accident happened at about 8:30 a. m. Monday at an intersection of alleys behind Franklin St. school when young Hill rode his bike into an auto, operated by Charles Mumaw Jr., 30, of 419 E. Ohio St.

The youth was knocked from his bicycle in the mishap. He was rushed into the hospital by Mumaw, Merriman said.

Merriman warned bicycle riders that many alley intersections in the city have to be approached with caution.

HE POINTED out many hard-surface alleys in the community are used by motorists.

"Too many of the kids think they're safe when they're riding their bikes through the alleys," he said. "They chase one another and generally dash up and down without regard for the intersections."

"I hope from now on everybody will be more careful in driving cars or riding bikes off the main streets."

Rok Raiders Use Homemade Bombs

SEOUL (AP)—South Korean raiders roasted Red bunkers and trenches with homemade jellied-gasoline bombs today in two hit and run raids.

The troops counted a dozen dead North Koreans and more were believed caught in the scorched bunkers. Only small clashes were reported elsewhere along the west front, soaked by a night of rain.

pretended as a move to bring Eisenhower together with Malenkov for U. S.-sponsored talks. The committee went ahead with the Czech charges, however.

Eisenhower said last week he would meet any real peace overtures from the Russians halfway. Soviet propaganda since Stalin's death has emphasized the possibility of peaceful relations with the West, and the usual constant Russian talk of American and Western "warmongers" has been shelved, at least for the present.

Delegates here are in a state of watchful hope (with the emphasis, as one Westerner stressed, on the "watchful") over the new Soviet line. They say a real clue to Russia's intentions may come after Vishinsky returns here.

VISHINSKY hurried home after Stalin's death and is the first high-ranking Soviet diplomat to come out of Moscow since Malenkov took over. The Russian talk of peace has stepped up as Vishinsky, former foreign minister and now chief Soviet delegate here, has moved Westward toward New York.

The Soviet UN delegation has tried constantly to delay action on important questions until his return, obviously on Moscow's orders.

Polar set the stage for a possible appeal for the Eisenhower-Malenkov meeting by asking the Assembly Political Committee to hold up debate on two highly controversial items—Czechoslovak charges that the U. S. is spying and meddling behind the Iron Curtain and U. S. demands for a UN inquiry to clear it of germ warfare charges in Korea.

Auxiliary Police Meeting Scheduled

Another meeting to reorganize Circleville's auxiliary police under civilian auspices will be held at 8 p. m. Tuesday in City Council Chambers.

Officer Charles Smith, assigned to direct the auxiliary police organization, urges all persons interested in the plan be present for the session.

"We want to get this thing rolling," Smith said, "and as soon as we're organized enough we can have somebody from the civil defense organization step in and tell us just what the situation is."

Toy Locomotive, Little Finger Give Firemen Difficult Task

Seven-year old Karen Wilson became so attached to a locomotive Sunday that city firemen had to work 25 minutes before they could pry her loose.

The locomotive was a toy in the Wilson home on Fay Ave. in the Isaac Addition, Circleville Township.

And a popular toy it was, too. So popular, in fact, that Karen jammed her little finger of her left hand down its tin smokestack beyond the second knuckle, and then couldn't get her hand free again.

The child's worried parents decided to bring her to the fire station, where the problem became one of using a metal cutting tool without aggravating the finger injury. Karen's finger by that time had swollen and was slightly cut.

The locomotive had been pulled loose in the Wilson home, but a small metal ring from its stack held tight about the finger.

FIREMEN USED ice to reduce the swelling and then, bit by bit, snipped at the metal ring until it fell free.

"Karen's a brave little girl," firemen said. "She hardly cried at all, and boy that must have been painful!"

Firemen had much other business over the weekend, beginning with three calls Saturday.

At 11:15 a. m. Saturday they extinguished a grass fire along Springhollow drive, and at 1:50 p. m. checked a similar blaze on the property of George Rose near Ringgold.

Burning ties along tracks of the Norfolk and Western Railway near W. Main St. resulted in the other Saturday alarm at 9:30 p. m.

At 8:30 a. m. Sunday, a fire scare was investigated in the home of Mrs. E. A. Brown of E. Main St. At 11:35 p. m., a short circuit in a floor plug was investigated at 507 S. Court St.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has caused to wonder whether everyone in the State Department, besides being loyal to the country, is loyal to him.

Sen. McCarthy claims to have enough information about the department's inner workings in at least one case—that of Charles E. Bohlen—to call Dulles untruthful.

Because the 48-year-old Bohlen, with 24 years' foreign experience, is one of the department's best specialists on Russia, President Eisenhower and Dulles decided to send him to Moscow as American ambassador.

Since Bohlen couldn't have the job unless the Senate approved, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would have to check on him first. This meant Bohlen and Dulles would have to answer questions on Bohlen's background and fitness.

But for some unexplained reason, which originated before Dulles' time as secretary, Bohlen had never been investigated by the FBI. Several weeks ago Dulles asked the FBI to examine Bohlen's life.

He got the report last week and discussed it with R. W. Scott McLeod, who is in charge of security matters for the State Department. Dulles hired McLeod only a few weeks ago.

Before that McLeod had been administrative assistant to Sen. Bridges, New Hampshire Republican, who, with McCarthy and Sen. McCarran, Nevada Democrat, have been the main opponents to Senate approval of Bohlen.

The FBI reports all the information, good and bad, which it picks up on a person under investigation. But the FBI draws no conclusions. It leaves that to a high official, like Dulles, in the department where the investigated man works.

So Dulles went before the foreign relations committee. He didn't show the report to the members. He summarized it for them, saying the report contained some derogatory information about Bohlen.

But none of it, he told the committee, was of the kind that could throw doubt on Bohlen as a loyalty or security risk. After questioning Dulles for three hours, and talking with Bohlen, the committee unanimously approved Bohlen.

Dulles said that when McLeod looked over the FBI report and found the derogatory information he had told Dulles: "This is not a case which I can automatically pass because wherever there is derogatory information of this sort I think it is my duty to bring it to your attention."

Dulles told a news conference later that there was no difference of opinion between him and McLeod on Bohlen and, in answer to a question, he said McLeod did not suggest that Bohlen not be approved.

This is where McCarthy steps into the picture. Until this point McCarthy, McCarran and Bridges had argued against Bohlen mainly because he had worked so closely with former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and had taken part in the Yalta and Potsdam conferences as interpreter.

McCarthy, McCarran and Bridges are not members of the foreign relations committee, before which

Imitator Has One Frustration-- He Just Can't Tinkle Like Bell

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Milano is perhaps the only man in the world who can make a sound like a flying saucer.

"It takes off with a strange whistling, whining noise, like this—00z00z00z00z—then it becomes super-sonic, and you can't hear it," he said.

Milano is firmly convinced flying saucers do exist, they are not of this planet, and it is high time us earth people came to terms with them.

"They are not hallucinations," he insisted. "I have seen one myself, and my wife has seen several."

Frank's ability to imitate the sound of a flying saucer stems from a highly educated set of vocal chords that earn him $35,000 to $50,000 a year. He is one of the nation's few professional animal imitators and vocal effects artists.

Milano, a pleasant, mild-mannered ex-actor, drifted into his specialty by accident. But today radio and television would be hard put to do without him. He does the voice effects for half a dozen programs, ranging from a pup on the Rottie Kazootie show to a live parrot on the Bill Goodwin show.

"I can imitate anything from a cricket to a roaring lion," Frank said. "I've been a gorilla, an elephant, a burro, Rip Van Winkle's dog, and even a mosquito."

He has also been the voice of a motor boat with a sense of humor, a wayward bus, a jet-propelled spoon, and an automobile starter with a rundown battery. Oh, yes, he also was a rice krispie for a while. His "snap, crackle and pop" performance in that role is, of course, now a part of theatrical history—like Hamlet.

"I like imitating mechanical gadgets," Frank said. "Right now I'm playing the part of a washing machine—chug, chug, gluggle, gluggle. I can also make a sound like a squadron of talking airplanes, but none of the airlines will buy it for a commercial. They say it's too frightening."

The animals he hates most to imitate are bears. Scratches his vocal chords.

"Animal battles—two stallions fighting it out, or a mountain lion fighting a horse—are hard on my throat, too," he said. "I guess I like to do dogs best. There are only two kinds of dog barks, big dog barks and little dog barks."

"Dogs have been very important in my career. Some day I'd like to retire and raise them. I owe them a lot."

Frank takes his art seriously, goes to endless lengths to be certain his sounds are realistic. His toughest assignment was to imitate a talking eagle.

"I haunted the zoo for days, but the eagles wouldn't talk, although I tried 300 different sounds on them trying to get them to answer," he said. "Finally, during a trip to the country, I heard a couple of eagles screeching at night. I got out of bed and screeched back at them until I had the sound down pat."

All great artists have their sorrows, and Frank has his. There is one sound he has never been able to imitate.

"I can't tinkle like a bell," he said. "I have tried and tried, but I can't make it. So far as I know nobody can. If you could vocalize like a bell—well, you'd really have something, wouldn't you?"

Modern Farm Scene Of Many Fire Hazards

Today's farm has all the fire hazards of a machine shop, factory, gasoline station and paint shop combined.

That fact was emphasized in a warning issued in connection with Spring "clean-up" activities directed toward bringing about a more fire-safe community.

Today's mechanized farm makes wide use of gasoline-operated machinery and electrical equipment, all of which have created many new fire hazards that must be safeguarded against by the farmer and his employees.

It addition, farm fires frequently result in almost total loss.

Unlike buildings in urban areas, where fire protection and water supplies are adequate, those in farm areas are often completely destroyed when they catch fire.

Police Chief Dies

LORAIN (AP)—Funeral services are scheduled tentatively for Wednesday for Paul Allen Cleaver, 50, Lorain police chief who died Sunday. A native of Harrison in Hamilton County, he had been on the Lorain force 24 years.

Dulles testified. After the unanimous vote for Bohlen, McCarran said Dulles had misrepresented the situation to the committee, that McLeod, instead of not differing with Dulles, had actually told him he "could no clear" Bohlen.

McCarthy said the same thing, adding that what Dulles had told the committee about himself and McLeod was untrue. And, he said, he knew what was in Bohlen's file.

Since the FBI investigation was not made until after the Eisenhower administration took office, McCarthy must have meant he knew what was in Bohlen's regular personnel file, although he didn't say how he knew.

He went beyond this, though, by saying there were 16 pages of derogatory information about Bohlen in the FBI report. This might have been told him in some form by a senator who was on the foreign relations committee and heard Dulles testify.

But McCarthy also said that Bohlen was a bad security risk. He didn't explain (A) how he and McCarran knew Dulles and McLeod differed and (B) how he could be so positive that the FBI files, which he wasn't supposed to see and didn't actually say he saw, proved Bohlen a bad security risk.

SENSIBLE EDUCATOR

MANY EDUCATORS ARE perturbed by inquiries into Communism in public schools. Not so Mrs. Millicent McIntosh, president of Barnard college. She was asked by her students if she thought teachers had a right to refuse to answer questions about Communist affiliations and whether a Communist had a right to teach in the public schools.

Mrs. McIntosh said teachers ought to answer questions about Communist affiliations by compulsion, if need be. They have a moral responsibility to answer and educators will not "help the cause of education or liberal thought if they consider themselves apart from the usual responsibilities of citizens."

She said Communists had no right to teach in schools because they distort the truth. Many students are mature enough to listen to such teaching without harm. Others would accept anything the teacher said as gospel and their minds would be warped by the teaching.

This educator endorses the main purpose of current probes into Communism in education, which is to uproot any Communism which may be in the schools. In this she shows good sense. Communism is so abhorrent to the overwhelming majority of Americans that sincere educators, with good public relations in mind, ought to support the effort to oust Communists from schools in New York City and other places where they are known to be.

HOW ARE YOUR BRAKES?

ONE FACTOR IN traffic safety which has not been accorded sufficient importance is operation of mechanically defective automobiles. Cars involved in fatal accidents are frequently found to have defective brakes, lights or unbalanced wheels. Ask the operator of any parking lot who moves scores of cars every day how many he finds with adequate brakes. "Too few" will be his answer.

Here is one cause of traffic deaths which can and must be eliminated. Thousands of cars are on the streets and highways every day which should be in repair shops.

Safety officials, city, state and federal, labor unceasingly to lower the traffic death rate, with little to show for their efforts. Their task is complicated by many factors, including drunken drivers, speeders and a general inclination to disobey the laws.

How are your brakes?

When Molotov said Russia now will aim for peace, he seems to have meant planes.

These Days

The theory of the Civil Service is that employees of the Government of the United States, not on the policy-making level, could be taken out of politics and put on a permanent basis of employment and advancement without dependence on political preferment. Each candidate for such a position is required to take a written examination; he is required to satisfy the Civil Service Commission as to his character and loyalty and general suitability for the particular post.

President Truman perverted the Civil Service system by covering large numbers of deserving Democrats by Civil Service benefits who have not taken the necessary examinations and whose virtues have not been duly determined by fitting investigation. They were folded into the Civil Service by Executive Order. It would seem fitting and proper that all such might immediately be thrown out by the Eisenhower Administration, not only with the object of making room for deserving Republicans but also to reduce the unbearable payroll of the Federal Government.

There ought to be no problem about that, as General Eisenhower himself said that government employment is not a right but a privilege. Some Democrats and many Left-Wingers regard a government job as a human right and they hop from one public office to another with amazing agility, managing to hold on to some bit of the payroll despite exposure of their defects. The United States would suffer no loss if they were sent forth to work at earning a living instead of just getting one. Some of them get jobs in the United Nations or the Ford Foundation.

The Eisenhower Administration has been too gentle in the matter of ridding the country of an unnecessary officialdom, although, for nearly 20 years, the Republicans have made a tremendous noise about the size of government employment, which now reaches the unbelievable figure of 2.5 million. Anyone who has ever tried to be serviced in a government office has had a wonderful experience in slow motion, with the hired help getting in each other's way for want of something to do.

The huge government payroll started as a relief measure during the Depression years, the theory being that made-work justified itself in hard times. The jobs were developed to make work, and even if a typist devoted herself to writing letters to prospective or imaginary boy friends, it was considered better than a dole.

Also, under the New Deal, a system of grading developed by which the importance of an official was measured in terms of the number of persons under him. Thus a smart public servant permitted his department to grow big so that he would look important. This device was so usual that it was given a special name, "empire-building."

Thus, Federal employment rose from a slight 615,000 in 1932 to about 2.5 million today. Mr. Roosevelt was never as expansive in peace years as Mr. Truman, his highest figure being 1.4 million for 1941.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
AFTER Derek had gone, Jason emerged from the kitchenette grinning. "You've certainly got him going. Just as well I made myself scarce. But it was rather like a good old French farce, although in them the lover usually pops into a closet." His lean face sobered. "Carol, you be a sensible girl and concentrate on Derek. And now I'll leave you to get dressed."

She thrust the few dollars she had into his hand. "Take this, Jason. I won't need any money until I'm paid tomorrow." He hesitated. "All right, but it's a loan, darling."

"And don't forget if you do want a bed..." Her voice died away. She found she was suffering acutely from embarrassment and she hadn't felt embarrassed when they had discussed it before.

"No, darling," he said, "that's just one of those things I'm not going to do. You can resist temptation, but it's wisest not to stick your neck out. And—you're rather lovely. Did you know that, my sweet?"

He bent and kissed her forehead.

"Good luck, Jason," she whispered.

"Good luck to you, darling." He smiled, but this time there was no mockery in it; his hand squeezed her arm again and then he was gone. The room seemed empty afterwards and her feeling of extreme tiredness returned. It was an effort to start getting dressed up to go to the dance with Derek.

As Derek drove Carol up before the Breakers, she saw some couples dancing out on the patio. Light streamed through the glass windows of the verandah ballroom mingling with the moonlight. Vaguely, along with the dance music, she could hear the swish of the breakers beating against the sea wall in front of the hotel. A lovely setting, atmosphere, color, music...

As they walked across the grass, she told herself how lucky she was to be here with Derek. His white dinner jacket emphasized his dark good looks, and he had his hand under her elbow possessively. But somehow she couldn't keep her attention on him or what he was saying; she kept glancing about, instinctively looking for someone. She noticed the huge palms standing near the sea wall. It was by one of the palms that Jason was to meet Julie.

"Are you looking for anyone, Carol?"

"No, I—Julie told me she was coming tonight."

"Good. She's a nice kid."

She laid her short white angora jacket on a chair and they danced. The Tennessee Waltz, the same tune they'd danced to on the boat. She remembered the pleasure dancing with him had given her. Life that night had seemed full of thrilling and romantic possibilities. She tried to recapture the feeling, but somehow it eluded her. The

Our sympathies go to Baltimore which has risen to sixth city in size in the United States yet must remain, for at least another year, strictly a bush league town.

In his failure to transfer the Browns from St. Louis to the Maryland metropolis, Bill Veeck did avoid a shutout. The score was 5 to 2.

With opera star Rosa Ponselle tabbed for grand jury duty Zadok Dumkopf wonders if law enforcement will strike a new high note.

In England a centennarian boasts that he touches his toes three times each morning and evening. This can't be what they mean by that phrase—"bent with old age."

Cartoonists, we hear, are having a tough time caricaturing Russia's Malenkov. He could co-operate by smoking a pipe and raising a mustache.

A leading British politician declares he doesn't believe in calling people names. Must have a tough time making a campaign speech.

Because he coughed in court while a witness was testifying, an Englishman was fined on charge of contempt of court. We'll wager that by now he must be running a high temperature!

Try, Stop Me

A young miss was wildly in love with a pilot in Korea, and mooned about him so that her poor parents were beside themselves. "He may be able to fly a jet," grumbled the father, "but judging by the excerpts you've read us from his letters he's the mushiest sap who ever came down the pike." "But, Papa," protested the daughter, "listen to this one and maybe you'll change your mind: Last night as I lay in my bunk, your dear face suddenly appeared before me. When I saw those luminous, trusting eyes, and your luscious, soft lips, I vowed that I would be worthy of your love. The air suddenly seemed purer and a beam of moonlight pierced the clouds and shone on my pillow—" "Stop!" roared Father. "That's the worst drool yet!" The daughter calmly handed the letter to her mother. "It was so nice of you to let me read what Papa sent you while he was fighting in World War I."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, March 23—Despite professions of good cheer and courage in high places here and abroad, the rapidly deteriorating position of the anti-Russian alliance headed by the United States may yet provoke a Congressional inquiry of our military and economic strength. As against Moscow's monolithic unity, the free nations seem to be falling or breaking apart, as Stalin forecast shortly before his death.

Official and unofficial reports to Capitol Hill are completely contradictory on all factors bearing on the progress of the cold war. In such a hazy atmosphere, as noted by both Republicans and Democrats—Taft and Bridges, Byrd and Symington—it is impossible to enact corrective legislation or to appropriate funds for national and world defense against the Reds.

Not since the first anxious months after Pearl Harbor has Congress been so concerned over national security measures, or the lack of them.

AMMUNITION — Gen. James A. Van Fleet, the man on the firing line in Korea for 22 months maintains that serious shortages of ammunition still exist. But Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as well as civilian heads at the Pentagon, say the opposite.

Addressing NATO chieftains at a military symposium in France, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said:

"During the foreseeable future, we shall be short of much of our material. We shall be deficient in many items—critically short in some."

"Critically" is the word military commanders use when they are in desperate straits. It is their technical term with regard to supplies.

But Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Ridgway's chief of staff, painted a rosy picture of NATO's growing strength in a recent report to President Eisenhower.

STRENGTH — Lt. Gen. Curtis F. Le May only added to the confusion in speaking before this same European group. The head of the U. S. Strategic Command bewildered his immediate listeners as well as Capitol Hill.

Promising NATO nations all-out atomic aid in event of a Communist attack, Le May declared that "the Atlantic Alliance's capabilities for punishing peace breakers is greater than all the military power ever assembled from the time of Genghis Khan (1200 A. D.) until today."

This hyperbolic statement contrasts sharply and tragically with Defense Secretary Wilson's shock at discovering how far we lag behind Russia in aerial power, especially modern bombers and jets. Such a fantastic figure as $20 billion has been mentioned as necessary to close the gap over a four-year period.

As if these gloomy citations of Communist versus Democratic strength and chances of survival in a global showdown were not enough, the British Admiralty now admits openly that the Soviet has the second most powerful "active" navy on the seven seas, ranking only behind the United States.

By
Ray Tucker

ECONOMIC AID — The world canvass is hardly more hopeful on the economic side, despite the lavish billions the U. S. has contributed to our allies and ex-enemies.

The United Nations Commission for Europe recently reported that the Western European nations are "slipping" industrially. In all the essentials for making war—steel, coal, oil, electricity, etc.—their gains are not comparable to Russia's under the five-year plan. The Commission also questioned whether American aid could ever change the situation, in view of European disunity.

In view of the recent administration change in Washington, our delegates at these international inventories are in no position to promise anything. They cannot commit Eisenhower and Dulles.

And yet, to add to Ike's burdens, the free world is waiting for him to speak or act. Meanwhile, and this factor keeps alive demands for a broad, nonpolitical survey, the Reds are winning the cold war on all fronts.

Informal Dance Is Given At Pickaway Country Club

Approximately 50 Persons Attend

Arrangements for forsythia and candles were used as decorations for the informal dance held Saturday evening for members of the Pickaway Country Club and their out of county guests.

Approximately 50 persons were present for the event held in the club. Committee in charge was composed of Dr. and Mrs. David Goldschmidt, Mr. and Mrs. William Crist and Dr. and Mrs. Mark Huckerriede.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ugie of Newark, Mr. and Mrs. George Speakman of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pie and William Short, who are new residents in Circleville.

Barbara Jenkins Marks Birthday

Mrs. Joe Jenkins of Tarrilton entertained recently in honor of her daughter, Barbara Ann, who was celebrating her sixth birthday anniversary.

Games were played and prizes were awarded. Venita Rhymer, Linda Ash, Michael Spangler and Ricky Macklin.

Refreshments were served to Linda Ash, Ricky Macklin, Bernida McDowell, Venita Rhymer, Lee-wood Rhymer, Sandra Van Fossen, Michael Spangler, Mrs. Edgar Turney, Miss Gladys Turvey, Mrs. Earl Reichelderfer, Mrs. Albert Spangler, Mrs. Richard McDowell, Mrs. Richard Rhymer and Johnny, Judy, Barbara and Jack Jenkins.

Jolly Stitches Conduct Meeting

Jackson Jolly Stitches met recently in the home economics room of the school.

Meeting opened by all members repeating the 4-H pledge. During the meeting the project was discussed for the coming year and it was decided to meet every two weeks.

The next meeting will be held April 1 in the home economics room.

Price cannot always be depended on as an indication of quality in sheets. Sheet type numbers represent the total number of warp and filler threads per square inch. Muslins are made in 140's, 128's and 112's. The thread count in percales is usually 200 or 180 per square inch. It is difficult to distinguish between these two on the basis of appearance and feel. In both muslin and percale, the higher count is preferable, although the cost is slightly more.

MEATLESS MEALS

By BETTY NEWTON

A good sharp cheese combined with rice and tomatoes is a tasty main dish in a Lenten meal. A salad of fresh fruits served on crisp greens adds a nice contrast in flavor. Green beans, broccoli or peas complete the meal.

Cheese Rice Casserole

1 1/2 C. uncooked rice
Water
1 small can mushrooms
4 Tbsp. shortening
1/2 C. chopped onion
1/2 C. chopped green pepper
1 No. 2 can (2 1/2 C.) tomatoes
1 Tbsp. brown sugar
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. white pepper
1 1/2 C. grated sharp cheese

Cook rice according to package directions. Melt shortening and lightly brown the mushrooms, onion and green pepper. Mix all the ingredients and place in a greased casserole. Bake in gas range at 350 degrees for 30 to 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Lima Bean Supreme

1 lb. dried lima beans
1/2 C. salad oil
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) tomato puree plus water to make 1 1/2 C.
1 medium onion, chopped
2 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 C. chopped celery
2 gherkins, chopped
1/2 C. chopped stuffed olives
1 Tbsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper

Soak beans overnight. Cover. Bring to boil in water in which they were soaked; turn flame to simmer, and cook 1 1/2 hours. Drain. Combine oil with tomato and water mixture and bring to boil. Add remaining ingredients. Mix half of sauce with beans and put in 2 qt. bean pot or casserole. Add rest of sauce. Cover. Bake in gas range at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours. Makes 6 servings.

After washing curtains which attach at both top and bottom rods, hang them up while still damp to prevent shrinkage and do away with the need for ironing. They'll dry a smooth and perfect fit.

Southwest Ohio Again Cops Titles

Middletown Keeps Class A Crown; Mariemont Is King Of B Boys

CINCINNATI (AP)—"Break up the Southwestern District" may well become the cry in Ohio high school basketball.

For the second straight year the Southwestern District, and Butler and Hamilton Counties in particular, have swept the state championship boards.

Middletown's magnificent Mid-dies, winning their fifth state title in 10 years, took the Class A championship with surprising ease in a 7-5 final game victory over Newark, a three-time state champ.

And Mariemont, a Cincinnati suburb, piled up even a bigger score in crushing Philo, 87-44, in the final Class B game. It was Mariemont's first state championship and the Warriors succeeded Wayne High School of Lockland, another Cincinnati suburb, on the Class B throne.

Middletown's championship was its second in a row.

Record-breaking crowds saw two four-team final tournaments in the big Cincinnati Garden. The 12,956 fans who watched the Middletown-Newark game Saturday represented the biggest crowd ever to see a high school game in Ohio.

There were 7,681 fans in the Garden for the Mariemont-Philo game.

The Friday sessions drew 11,28 for the two Class A games and

51 Colleges Due To Share TV Pie

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association is going to slice a million-dollar pie for 51 schools whose football teams appeared on television last year.

That fact emerged from a meeting of the NCAA Executive Committee here today. Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said sponsors of the organization's 1952 controlled football television program paid $1,151,109 to televise 33 "live" games. He said it wasn't known yet just how much each school's share would be.

Cincinnati Seeks Yankee Material

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—General Managers Gabe Paul of the Cincinnati Reds and George Weiss of the New York Yankees huddled before their clubs played an exhibition game here Sunday, adding fuel to reports Paul may be trying to make a deal to buy several highly touted Yankee farmhands.

It's no secret the Reds are searching for more pitching strength. Poor pitching showed up heavily in Sunday's exhibition, which the Yanks won, 13-11.

Worsham, Bolt Pacing Tourney

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Lew Worsham and Tommy Bolt are the men to beat for the top $2,000 in the Jacksonville Open golf tournament today.

Worsham and Bolt stand at 204 going into today's final 18 holes of the 72 hole Jaycee-sponsored event.

If either of them can better 68 he will set a new tournament record here.

CHS Juniors End Season With 4 Wins, 9 Losses

Circleville's junior high school basketball team ended its 1952-53 season with a record of four victories in 13 starts.

Heading the junior Tiger scoring attack during the season was Ed Tomlinson, who registered a total of 229 points for an average of 17.6 per game.

Next high in scoring for the season were Bill Schneider with 54 points, an average of 4.1; and Bill Johnson with 31 points, averaging 3.3.

The juniors this season, coached by Al Gabriel, earned a total of 441 points for an average of 33.9 per game. Their opponents registered 525 for an average of 40.5.

TIGER JUNIORS connected on 23.5 per cent of their free throw attempts this season, completing 114. Circleville's Stogie Club added to the season for the juniors, buying the team new uniforms of black, trimmed in red and white, and a new gray warmup gear.

Toledo Fans Picking Name

TOLEDO (AP)—Fans of Toledo's new baseball team today were preferring the nickname "Buckeyes" or "Braves" in a pool conducted by the Toledo Times.

The Times has received 751 suggestions for renaming the old Milwaukee Brewers, including 245 different names. The paper will turn over its findings to whatever committee the owning club, the Boston Milwaukee Braves, delegates to make the final selection.

One lady came up with "Wal-luperinis." Translated, she said, that means: "Wow! Lou Perini (owner of the Braves)."

Sokolsky's These Days

Of course, in the war years, employment went well over 3 million. High Federal employment during a war period is to be expected, and it was hoped that Mr. Truman would bring it down to Mr. Roosevelt's figure, which was still high.

However, Mr. Truman, being an amiable gentleman, kindly and respecting the welfare of deserving Democrats, not only kept the Federal payroll high but folded many into the Civil Service without requiring them to take the usual examinations to prove their fitness.

Those who did take examinations should have whatever protection the Civil Service Law provides, if their jobs are necessary at all. If the jobs are unnecessary, they should be abolished. The United States ought not to be an eleemosynary institution.

The President has appointed a commission to adjust the Hoover Reports to the needs of the Eisenhower Administration. A thoroughgoing plan to reorganize the Executive branch of the government could reduce the payroll. They could also plan to get a dollar's work for a dollar of pay.

This may be a revolutionary doctrine but not an evil one. There is no reason why a government job should produce lazier workers than private enterprise. And workers always work better if they fear the prospect of dismissal.

It is a wonderful cure for those who believe that tenure on a job saves one from the necessity to work.

Mound Staff Seen Problem For Yankees

Stengel Won't Admit He's Worried, But 3 Top Hands Rusty

By The Associated Press
Manager Casey Stengel won't admit he's worried yet, but he certainly has a problem with the season opening in only three weeks. It's pitching.

And no team has ever won a pennant without pitching. Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi and Eddie Lopat are three names that should strike terror into the hearts of opposing batters. But Reynolds is nursing a pulled muscle in his back and doesn't know when he'll be able to toe the mound again; Raschi looked horrible yesterday against the Cincinnati Reds, although the Yanks won the ball game, 13-11, and Lopat hasn't made an appearance yet.

About the only bright spot in this dreary day for Stengel came when he talked to Redleg Manager Rogers Hornsby about Ewell Blackwell. There had been rumors that the Whip wouldn't be much help to the Yanks, but Hornsby pooh-poohed the idea.

"It's true Blackwell isn't in condition yet," said Hornsby, "but he never is at this time of year. Blackie ought to win between 10 and 15 games if he works regularly."

If the Yank pitchers don't round into form, Blackwell will see plenty of action. In yesterday's slugfest at Tampa, Raschi couldn't hold an 8-1 lead his mates built for him in three innings. All told he was walloped for 10 hits in five innings. His relief, Bill Miller, was even worse. He was tagged for 10 in four innings.

Bubba Church and Barney Martin divided the hurling chores for the Reds. They, too, turned in sad performances, so Hornsby had nothing on Stengel, or vice versa.

But New York Giants' Manager Leo Durocher, who has had his share of headaches this spring, apparently was minus at least one headache, although his operatives suffered a 1-0 loss to the Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast League in Oakland.

Larry Jansen, who won only 11 games last year because of a sore back, started and cut loose for the first time. He allowed the Oaks only one hit in his five innings on the mound. If he can come close to his 1951 form when he won 23 games, the Brooklyn Dodgers can begin worrying.

As for the Brooks, Manager Chuck Dressen spent the day wondering what was going to happen in his noble experiment in shifting Jackie Robinson to third base. Stories of dissension over the move caused enough concern among the Brook brass to send Vice President Buzzy Bavasi hurrying to investigate the situation. Apparently it's all ironed out with Billy Cox willing to take the role of utility man.

While the game with the Boston Red Sox was rained out in Miami, Dressen took the time to announce what everyone knew—that Joe Black would be in the bullpen again.

"We are sure of Preacher Roe, Carl Erskine, Billy Loes and Russ Meyer as starters," he said. "For a time I feared we would need Black as a fifth starter, but young John Podres has looked so good I don't think he can miss."

There were only two other games between major league teams. The St. Louis Browns whipped the Chicago White Sox for Satchel Paige and Harry Brecheen on a home run by Jim Uppright, and the Milwaukee Braves slugged the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-1.

The San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League defeated the Cleveland Indians, 5-4, when rookie

Indian Pitchers Look OK In Test

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Manager Al Lopez got his first look at Bob Feller and Early Wynn in action Sunday — and the Cleveland pitchers looked good despite the first baseman Joe Macko made an error that led to an unearned run in the 13th inning.

The Los Angeles Angels took a 5-2 setback at the hands of the Chicago Cubs.

Tribe's 5-4 extra inning loss to the Seals at San Francisco.

Feller, whose only previous pitching this year was in a benefit tilt Lopez missed, faced only 10 men in the three innings he worked and didn't allow either a run or a walk. Wynn, who held out and was late for training, gave up four blows in four innings and two unearned runs, both charged against his own throwing error.

Gene Shields, student manager of the TCU football team last year, plays No. 1 on the Frog golf team.

2-Point Program Rated Best Way To Encourage Teachers

Leaders Recall Warning Here On Shortage

Long Range Salary Schedule Favored In OEA Drive

Circleville's school teachers outlined a two-point program Monday as the "only effective way" to check the nationwide trend of teachers toward better-paying jobs with the government and in private business.

Spokesmen for the group recalled a warning here by City School Superintendent Frank Fischer, who told a Parent-Teacher Association meeting a critical teacher shortage may be "just around the corner" for this community.

Teachers here have asked public support for legislation sponsored by the 100th General Assembly by the Ohio Education Association. It is one of three bills seeking increased funds for education in Ohio.

In its latest statement urging public support for Senate Bill 22, the OEA measure, Circleville School Teachers' Association said: "Ohio's legislature can end the teacher shortage promptly by converting the present unrealistic state minimum teachers' salary schedule into one which will provide the only effective way to check the loss of teachers from our schools. This can be accomplished by doing two things:

"FIRST, GIVE assurance to new teachers that they can expect gradually increased income over a long period of years provided they make teaching a lifetime career. The present schedule provides increases for only five years.

"In many districts, this means that teachers reach maximum pay for their careers at the end of five years ($2,900 for a teacher with a bachelor's degree). The result is that half or more of the new teachers are quitting their jobs within the five-year period.

"OEA proposes extending the schedule to from 10 to 16 years. A fully-trained teacher with a bachelor's degree could expect yearly pay increases of $100 for a 16-year period.

"Second, increase the starting minimums slightly to enable less wealthy districts to compete for new teachers on a fairer basis.

"Under the minimum schedule, a district is able to offer a fully-trained new teacher only $2,400 to start. They are unable to hire teachers when other districts in Ohio and neighboring states are offering beginning salaries of $3,000 and higher."

GOP Leaders Debate When To Kill RFC

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of Congress' banking committees say the Reconstruction Finance Corporation should be kept in existence until mid-1954, not abolished at the end of this year.

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) of the House Banking Committee said he is not "wedded" to any one plan for the big government lending agency but is more inclined to follow the present law. This bars any new loans by RFC after June 30, 1954.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind.) of the Senate Banking Committee, in a CBS-TV interview yesterday, agreed that the present law should be followed.

Interviews with Wolcott and other House sources yesterday indicated the Republicans generally agree on wiping out the agency, but disagree as to when and how to do it. A Senate bill now pending would abolish RFC Jan. 1.

Ashville Cubs Stage Annual Kite Contest

Cub Scouts of Ashville Pack 130 held their annual "kit derby" Sunday afternoon in Ashville's Community Park.

Prizes were awarded during the session for the kite flying the highest, steadiest, and kite showing best workmanship.

All kites in the competition were made by the Cubs and their fathers.

Award for best workmanship was won by Johnny Seymour, whose kite was decorated in dragons, shields and the motto "Always Be Prepared." Second prize was awarded to Jimmy Cooper, and third was won by Curtis Farmer.

HIGHEST-flying honors for the day were won by Tommy Rathburn, Phillip Reese and Jimmy Cooper.

And prizes for steadiest flying were won by Eugene Founds, Billy Reed and Rodney Hoover.

Dubious distinction of having their kite to be the first to plummet into a tree was won by Michael Courtright and his father, James Courtright.

Judges for the contest were Mayor Raymond Lindsey and Captain M. E. Mumme of Lockbourne Air Force Base.

Civilian Defense Needs Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two government leaders, citing last week's televised atomic tests in Nevada, are urging the American people to do more for civil defense.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the Democratic leader, said the tests convinced him neither military nor civil defenses are yet ready.

Val Peterson, federal civil defense administrator, said on a television program the nation has done fairly well, considering the size of the job, but must "do a lot better."

Ohio Assembly Faces Several Major Issues

Highway Safety, Relief Publication Bills Stated For Voting

COLUMBUS, O., (AP)—The Ohio Legislature headed into a typical mid-session work week today. Top floor vote of the week likely will be in the House on a bill to create a new state department of highway safety.

Other important legislative developments are likely to include: Senate Finance Committee approval of a Republican policy bill to make public the names of those receiving public assistance.

House Finance Committee approval of the Senate-passed bill to give the highway department 15 million dollars for any early start on important highway projects.

Probable reconsideration in the House of a bill defeated last week to require annual inspections of motor vehicles. If reconsidered, the bill probably will be returned to committee for repairs.

House Education Committee approval of a Republican policy bill to increase the public school subsidy to 225 million dollars, up about 18 millions from the total granted by the last Legislature.

Hearings will continue on Gov. Frank J. Lausche's $31 million dollar budget for the next two years; on truck and gasoline taxes to boost highway construction funds; to tighten narcotics laws; to improve rural telephone service.

vice and to revise the formula on which Ohio's utility rates are based.

The special seven-member Senate Investigating Committee which will probe reports of mistreatment and maladministration at the Cambridge State Hospital has scheduled its first meeting tonight. Its chairman is Sen. Ralph Humphrey (R-Ashtabula).

The bill to create the new highway safety department, which would have a director of Cabinet status, is opposed by officials of the State Highway Patrol. The Patrol would be a part of the new department.

Fred Moritz, deputy superintendent of the patrol, says a split in the present highway department would separate the patrol from the department with which its work is most closely allied.

Director of the new department would have authority over the patrol and would be registrar of motor vehicles as well in addition to administering the Ohio motorists' financial responsibility law which became effective March 1.

Floor votes scheduled today were on only minor legislation. Included is a proposal by Rep. Guy Campbell (R-Athens) to authorize construction of a sewer across Athens State Hospital land. It is needed to enable the City of Athens to comply with state anti-pollution laws.

Botts In Line For Marshal Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) says Howard C. Botts of Wilmington will be nominated U. S. Marshal for Southern Ohio today.

Botts is a former Clinton County sheriff and has been in state and local government service since 1920. He is 55.

Yankee Aid Abroad Hiked During 1952

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. aid to friendly countries increased 10 per cent in 1952 while their payments to the U. S. went up more than 25 per cent, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

It gave these figures:

Total U. S. aid to the free world in 1952 was $5,578,000,000, compared with $5,074,000,000 in 1951. Of the 1952 total $2,738,000,000 was military aid, nearly double the 1951 figure of $1,484,000,000.

Returns on aid—repayment of loans and reverse aid such as land for U. S. military installations—amounted to 574 million dollars in 1952, as against 452 million in 1951.

The net U. S. foreign aid figure in 1952 was thus $5,004,000,000. It was $4,622,000,000 in 1951.

Ohio, 40 Other States, Planning Teen-Age Draft In April

WASHINGTON (AP)—Forty-one states, including Ohio, will draft 19-year-olds for military duty in April, and two others may have to, an Associated Press survey showed today.

For 14 of these 41 states, it will be the first draft of 19-year-olds since World War II.

The survey of state selective service directors also found that all but two states, Alabama and

South Carolina, probably will be taking 19-year-olds in May. The Alabama director said it will be June, perhaps later, before any will be drafted in his state. The South Carolina director said he didn't know when.

The other three states that won't take 19-year-olds in April are Maryland, Vermont and Virginia. New Jersey and Tennessee directors said "maybe not."

Thirteen states plan to call 19-year-olds to fill at least 50 per cent of their April draft quotas. Probably the biggest number will come from Illinois where the state director estimated the "bulk" of a 3,254 quota would be 19-year-olds. Pennsylvania will need about 2,500 of a 4,081 quota. California comes third with about 2,000 of 3,164.

The April draft quota for the whole country is 53,000.

The present draft age is 18½ to 26. Draft boards have been taking first the oldest men they have. Until January state directors had been ordered to take no 19-year-olds.

The reason some states are taking 19-year-olds and some aren't results from the variation in available manpower to fill their quotas.

The actual number of 19-year-olds the states need to fill April quotas, the AP survey showed, varies widely.

Massachusetts, with a 1,262 quota, will need "substantially

all" 19-year-olds, as will Arizona with a 243 quota, the District of Columbia with a 218 quota and Oregon with a 350 quota.

Eleven states—Georgia, Indiana, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, Missouri, North Dakota, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming—say a small percentage of their quotas will be 19-year-olds.

In the following states, over 50 per cent of the listed quotas will be 19-year-olds:

Arkansas, 940 quota; Michigan, 2,527; New Hampshire, 151; Nevada, 48; New Mexico, 280; Rhode Island, 197; and Texas, 2,876.

In the following, about 25 per cent of the quotas will be 19-year-olds:

Florida, about 850 quota; Idaho, 248 quota; Kansas 749 quota; Kentucky, 1,356 quota and Louisiana 892 quota. North Carolina expects to take 700 of a 1,672 quota; Oklahoma, 500 of 1,300 quota, and Colorado, 100 of 336 quota.

No estimate of the number was made for Ohio, Connecticut, Delaware, Iowa, Montana, South Dakota, Utah or Washington, but each of them will be taking some 19-year-olds.

Rent Control Extension OK'd By Eisenhower

GOP Leaders Report RFC To Be Allowed To Die Natural Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) said today President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders have agreed to extend the present rent control law until Oct. 1.

The leaders also agreed to let the Reconstruction Finance Corp. die June 30, 1954. That is the date the government's big lending agency is due to go out of business under present law.

Rent controls will expire April 30 unless extended by Congress. The present law provides for rent ceilings on more than 5½ million housing units, including those in critical defense areas and in cities where local governments have requested ceilings.

Martin said on leaving a conference with Eisenhower and congressional leaders that an extension to Oct. 1 would serve as notice to the individual states that after that date the federal government would step out, except in critical defense areas.

THE STATES would have to take over if they care to continue controls in less critical areas, Martin said.

Beyond Oct. 1, Martin said, rent controls would be authorized only in areas determined to be critical defense areas.

The House Banking Committee has been holding hearings on possible legislation to extend rent controls. All price and wage controls have been ended.

Martin said about 50 per cent of the RFC offices throughout the country will be closed within 60 days.

The small loan functions of the RFC, he said, probably will be transferred to some other government agency. Details will be worked out by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Secretary of Commerce Weeks.

Meanwhile, he said, RFC will grant no loans over $1 million.

Earlier, the chairman of the banking committees of both the Senate and the House said the RFC should be kept in existence until mid-1954.

IN AVIATOR'S language, a good landing is any landing that the aeronaut walks away from. That makes this landing of a Navy plane on an Annapolis, Md., house a "good" one. Although the twin-engine PBV ripped into two houses, tearing out the roof and sidewalk from one and seriously damaging the other, no one was hurt and the two Navy fliers aboard the craft walked away from the wreckage. One of the demolished houses is in the background.

Deputies Stay With Mary Ruff In Jail Here

Mary Agnes Ruff, 34, of Ashville Route 2, who will go on trial here in two weeks on an accusation of murdering her husband, was back in Pickaway County jail Monday after six weeks in Berger hospital. A deputy sheriff is constantly with her in the jail.

Judge William D. Radcliff ordered the pretty, red-haired farm wife returned to jail Saturday on the basis of a special medical report and an agreement reached by opposing attorneys.

Pickaway County Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff and one of three deputies assigned to Mrs. Ruff accompanied her on the trip from the hospital.

Only hitch in the arrangements was a short delay in the hospital while the Sheriff awaited necessary release papers. He declined to accept a verbal release and required a signed paper.

RADCLIFF announced three new special deputies have been assigned to Mrs. Ruff and that those assigned to such duty at the hospital had been released. New deputies are Mrs. Orin Bircher, Mrs. Mary Lanman and Mrs. Ed Davis.

The Sheriff said one of the three will be with the prisoner at all times between now and time for her trial. Defense attorneys previously had said this would have to be done because of Mrs. Ruff's present condition.

Mrs. Ruff was arrested Jan. 15 after her husband was found shot to death in their home near South Bloomfield.

Midsouth Hit By Tornadoes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Midsouth was struck by a series of tornadoes and windstorms Sunday, leaving one dead, at least five injured and property damage estimated at more than $1 million.

The twisters raked across the same general sections in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee that were ravaged by tornadoes a year ago this week end, causing $30 million damage and killing 221 persons.

Did Tom Cat Walk 1,800 Miles Home?

GAGE, Okla. (AP)—Meowrrrr!!!

The S. A. Woods family saw a vaguely familiar cat crawl feebly into their yard and stared. Was this Tommy?

It was!

The family cat had hiked, or hitchhiked, his way back to Gage from California, a distance of 1,500 miles as a cat walks.

Of course it could have been a stray who just happened to look like Tommy. Just because he answered to his name was no positive proof. This bedraggled ball of fluff which still retained a trace of its bright yellow coat would have had to average over 13-13 miles a month during his 18-month absence to walk the distance. That's over two miles a day, without the aid of a compass, navigation equipment or radar.

So the Woods clan checked. When Tommy was a kitten he had suffered a broken right hip. A physical check revealed this animal had a bad hip.

Woods still wouldn't believe it. He called the woman in California who was supposed to be taking care of Tommy. She said the cat had disappeared a few days after he was put into her care 18 months ago.

And his family were in California then. They had moved there from Gage, but decided, after a year of living on the coast, they longed for their Oklahoma farm. They left the cat in California.

In 18 months Woods and the children had all but forgotten their old pet. Then: "Meowrrrr!!!"

Great Lakes Ice Due For Breaking

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coast Guard vessels start breaking shipping lanes this week through ice 14 to 20 inches thick in the St. Mary's River.

Should warm weather prevail throughout the week, the Coast Guard predicts the first ice openings will enter the river on Saturday in one of the earliest openings of Great Lakes navigation in years. Great Lakes boats have to pass through the St. Mary's from the lower lakes to enter Lake Superior.

Truman Praises Bohlen's Ability

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Citizen Harry Truman, at a press conference Sunday, praised Charles E. Bohlen, ambassador to Russia, as "a very capable person, a fine man, I know him well."

Truman, his wife and their daughter, Margaret, then sailed for a 30-day vacation in the Hawaiian Islands aboard the liner President Cleveland.

Former Egyptian Queen Back Home

CAIRO (AP)—Ex-Queen Narriman, pale, tired and leaning on her mother's arm came home to Egypt by plane from Switzerland before dawn today.

Returning to her homeland as a private citizen, the estranged wife of former King Farouk was met by a small group of her family. She will live at her mother's home in suburban Heliopolis. She confirmed only that she is separated from Farouk, although plans for a divorce have been rumored for several weeks. Her baby son is with Farouk in Rome.

Lack Of Law Labeled 'Tragic Neglect' By Famed Financier

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch said today if war comes and finds the government unprepared to clamp on immediate economic controls, "there will not be a person alive who will not bitterly rue this tragic, needless neglect."

Urging the administration and Congress get together on a stand-by economic controls law, or Congress do it alone if necessary, the New York financier and adviser to presidents said:

"The next war—and all of us pray it will be avoided—is likely to explode in a big smash. Cities may be all but obliterated. Who knows where Congress will be? "You face a simple issue," Baruch said in a statement to the Senate Banking Committee. "Are we to take the elementary precaution of writing into law now what we know would have to be done in event of emergency? "Or shall we neglect this vital measure of defense and, in doing so, increase the risk of war, add to the toll of dead and wounded if war does come and make inflation certain—all needlessly?"

BARUCH HAD been invited to give his views to the Senate committee, which is considering various legislative proposals for some sort of standby controls law.

Present authority for wage-price controls and allocations of scarce materials is due to expire variously on April 30 and June 30. President Eisenhower has said that except for allocations power and rent ceilings in critical areas, he will ask neither for their continuance nor for standby authority. Eisenhower has already decontrolled wages and prices.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind.) of the Senate banking group has been plugging for standby authority to freeze prices, wages and rents for 90 days after the start of a declared emergency.

Ike Standing Pat On Bohlen As Next Envoy To Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) reported today President Eisenhower is standing pat on his nomination of Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen to be ambassador to Russia.

Taft, the Senate majority leader, and Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) of the Foreign Relations Committee had a private meeting with Eisenhower after the regular Monday morning conference of GOP congressional leaders.

Afterward, Taft said there had been "no change" in the position of the President, Wiley, or himself on the nomination.

"We are going right ahead with it," Taft said. He added Senate debate would get underway today.

The nomination has been under fire by GOP Sens. McCarthy of Wisconsin and Bridges of New Hampshire. It also has been sharply criticized by Democratic Sen. McCarran of Nevada.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) said there was no discussion of Bohlen at the regular legislative conference.

today but indicated he wants action by midweek at the latest.

Taft's attitude indicated Bohlen's critics won't have much luck in efforts to recall Secretary of State Dulles and to get testimony from R. W. Scott McLeod, State Department security officer.

McCarthy and McCarran have contended Dulles cleared Bohlen over McLeod's objection when the secretary appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which approved Bohlen, 15-0, last week. Dulles said in testimony released Sunday that he cleared Bohlen when McLeod "did not wish to take the responsibility" and passed the case on up to him.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), not a foreign relations committee member, said McLeod should be summoned to "speak for himself."

But Dulles said he doesn't think security officers, "whose primary job is to raise doubts and find out suspicious circumstances, are the persons who should have final responsibility in matters of this kind."

McCarthy, who accused Dulles of giving an "untrue" account of McLeod's views on Bohlen, charged McLeod had been "ordered" not to show up Saturday at a meeting of the Senate's permanent investigating committee, which McCarthy heads. Efforts by newsmen to reach McLeod have been unavailing.

Dulles characterized Bohlen, a 48-year-old career officer who speaks Russian and is a specialist on Soviet affairs, as "a good security and loyalty risk." President Eisenhower contends Bohlen is a good appointee.

Indonesia Aide Defeated In Pushing Idea

Lodge Shuns Proposal Originated By Poles, Says It 'Insincere'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. S. and the Soviet bloc jointly killed today an Indonesian move which that Asian country claimed might speed peace talks between U. S. President Dwight Eisenhower and Russian Premier Georgi Malenkov.

L. N. Palar of Indonesia asked the UN's 60-nation Political Committee to move up a Polish item called "methods for avoiding a third world war" to top place on its agenda. He said it should be possible to have serious peace talks in connection with a item bearing that title.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. labelled the Polish plan "an insincere and rather cynical proposal" and said it would increase tension rather than ease it.

Polish Foreign Minister Stanislaw Skrzyszewski said he was not prepared to discuss his own plan at this time. On the contrary, he declared, Poland was ready to go ahead with Czech charges of American espionage activities behind the Iron Curtain. Discussion on that subject was originally scheduled for today.

PALAR, FACED by opposition from both East and West, then withdrew his suggestion. In proposing it he had told the committee he had been informed such an agenda change might "greatly facilitate" peace chances. He made the statement immediately after saying he would like to see Chief Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky take personal part in the debate.

Vishinsky is scheduled to arrive here Thursday from Moscow, and there has been considerable speculation he is bringing fresh instructions from the new Malenkov regime in the Kremlin.

Palar's move had been inter-

Some Solons Show Sentiment For Aggressiveness In War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some sentiment for a more aggressive strategy in the deadlocked Korean War was evident today among senators who heard Gen. James A. Van Fleet detail his complaints that American forces there don't have enough ammunition.

Van Fleet, recently retired after nearly two years as Allied field commander in Korea, called for harder-hitting attacks on the Reds.

But he said he doubts United Nations forces have enough ammunition to repel any major offensive the Communists might mount.

The general spoke out in testimony heard by the Senate Armed Services Committee behind closed doors earlier this month. A transcript, with security information deleted, was made public by the committee Sunday night.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), former secretary of the Air Force, asked Van Fleet if he thought "our pilots should have the right of 'hot pursuit' across the Yalu?"

"I CERTAINLY do," the general replied.

"So do I," said Symington.

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) suggested at one point that the ammunition supplies may have been used as "a leash" to keep Van Fleet from attacking.

Saying the "bloody stalemate" is an outrageous position, Flanders said: "Let us do something now."

Van Fleet replied he favors "having it out with Russia, and I mean an understanding with Russia; I hope a peaceful understanding. I do not mean a shooting war."

It also was announced that a House Armed Services Subcommittee soon will check closely into military procurement contracts that Chairman Hess (R-Ohio) said today appear to involve "questionable ethics."

Hess, whose subcommittee is charged with keeping tabs on how the military handles its procurement, said he did not wish to name names until after his group determines if anything is wrong.

The Ohioan said the subcommittee has heard of instances where the low bidder of a contract was not accepted and the procurement officials proceeded to negotiate with a higher bidder—then change specifications on the item without giving the interested firms a chance to bid again.

U.S. Dairymen Told Adjust To Markets

CHICAGO (AP)—The U. S. secretary of agriculture told dairymen today if they adjust their production to the markets and do a good selling job "the surplus problem will be gone."

The secretary, Ezra Taft Benson, summed up his views:

"There is no over-all surplus of dairy products. Actually there exists a great shortage of milk to meet our full needs."

"What we have is a lack of adjustment to the markets—so that not all of the butter, cheese and dried milk is being consumed. If the adjustments are made and milk and milk products are backed by the selling that their merits justify, the surplus problem will be gone."

Benson was booked to address the American Dairy Association at a time when farmers are worried by a downward slide in farm prices and the dairy industry is confronted with a surplus of such commodities as butter.

3 Plants Given Discharge Permits

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board today announced granting of permits for industrial waste discharge to three Northwestern Ohio industrial plants. They are:

Central Foundry Division of the General Motors Corp., Defiance; Bryan Tankage Co. and the Wauson Fertilizer Co.

Only Three Killed In Ohio Traffic

COLUMBUS (AP)—The first week end of spring brought fine weather and heavy traffic on Ohio's highways — and only three traffic deaths. It was the best record this year.

A tragic fire took the lives of three small children in Columbus.

Visiting Policeman Held In Shooting

TOLEDO (AP)—Paul R. Cox, a vacationing Detroit motorcycle policeman, stopped a car which cut in front of him Sunday by firing a shot into its dashboard.

When he heard about it, Detroit Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard indicated he was less than pleased. Leonard, saying he intended a "full investigation," held Cox had no right to carry a gun outside Detroit. Cox told Toledo police George C. Jones, 28, of Monroe, Mich., cut in front of the policeman's car repeatedly over a 10-mile stretch. Finally, he lost his temper and fired.

Leading French Painter, 75, Dies

PARIS (AP)—French painter Raoul Dufy died today at the age of 75, the French news agency announced. He had been a long-time sufferer from arthritis.

One of the famous "Fauves" (wild beasts) whose bright colors helped to revolutionize modern art early in this century, Dufy died, apparently in his sleep, before dawn at his home in Forcalquier, a village south of Avignon in Southern France.

3 Yankees Held By China Reds

HONG KONG (AP)—Three Americans seized with their yacht were held by Communist China today as high British and American officials tried to figure out a move to free them.

The 42-foot yawl Kert, with its six occupants, was taken in tow Saturday by an armed Communist junk between Hong Kong and Macau, five miles west of British-owned Lantau Island. The Americans are Richard Applegate of Medford, Ore., correspondent for the National Broadcasting Co., Donald Nixon of New York, International News Service correspondent; and Benjamin Krasner, Brooklyn ship captain.

Liquor Agent Is Cleared Of Misconduct

CLEVELAND (AP)—Authorities today cleared state Liquor Agent Fred R. Wiggins, 52, who was cruelly beaten in his hotel room, of any suspicion of official misconduct.

Detective Cap. David E. Kerr announced Donald J. Cardell, 24, of Pittsburgh, now admits he sneaked into Riggins' Hotel Hollenden room when he saw the door ajar, and beat and robbed Riggins of from $60 to $70.

That was different than the first version Cardell gave.

When he was arrested just four hours after the beating, he claimed Riggins invited him to his room and that the two were drinking together.

Kerr said Cardell told him they then got into an argument over who owed for drinks wagered in a bar bowling machine game and that he slugged Riggins.

Riggins was transferred here Friday from the Portsmouth enforcement district. He is a native of Wilmington.

Police charged Cardell today with unarmed robbery.

City Policemen To Have Pistol Shoot Monday

Circleville's police will have their first pistol-shooting tournament in remembered history of the department next Monday afternoon.

The tournament will be held on the third floor of City Hall, where there is a steel-backstopped range already set up.

A trophy for the department champion has been donated by Mayor Ed Amey. The trophy, about 20 inches tall, shows a uniformed man shooting a pistol.

Aimed to stimulate target practice within the department, officers will use their own .38's and their own ammunition. All members of the department are requested to enter the contest.

Mayor Amey has been named rangemaster for the event. Each man will fire about 20 shots in the contest.

2 Ships Bring Japs Back To Their Homes

MAIZURU, Japan (AP)—A second repatriation ship, Takasago Maru, arrived today from Shanghai with 1,959 Japanese nationals stranded in China since the end of World War II.

The first group of 2,009 men, women and children arrived in a pelting rain early today from Chiwangtao, Manchuria, aboard the Koan Maru.

By midsummer, some 25,000 Japanese, some held as long as 16 years, are scheduled to be returned from China.

Swarms of newsmen who boarded the Koan Maru today from fishing launches heard conflicting stories of life in Communist China. Some returnees wept for joy at the sight of their homeland. Others defiantly sputtered Red propaganda.

Some repatriates talked freely. Others glowered, close-mouthed.

Some described Red China as a paradise; others told of being driven at pistol point to work in Communist factories.

Almost all said Red China was conducting a successful war against germs and flies.

Some said the Communists taught them that South Korea invaded North Korea and that U. S. troops are waging germ warfare in Korea. They blamed the U. S. for the breakdown of truce talks.

Walkout Ended

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—Production in the open hearth and blooming mills of the Detroit Steel Corp. resumed today after a three-day strike which idled 2,500 of the plant's 3,200 workers.

Lad, 15, Hurt In Bike Crash

A Circleville schoolboy was injured early Monday when he rode his bicycle into an auto.

He is Charles Hill, 15, son of Mrs. Ethel Tobin of Circleville Route 3, treated in Berger hospital for a fractured collarbone and injuries to his left side and right hand.

Police Chief Elmer Merriman said the accident happened at about 8:30 a. m. Monday at an intersection of alleys behind Franklin St. school when young Hill rode his bike into an auto operated by Charles Mumaw Jr., 30, of 419 E. Ohio St.

The youth was knocked from his bicycle in the mishap. He was rushed into the hospital by Mumaw, Merriman said.

Merriman warned bicycle riders that many alley intersections in the city have to be approached with caution.

HE POINTED out many hard-surface alleys in the community are used by motorists.

"Too many of the kids think they're safe when they're riding their bikes through the alleys," he said. "They chase one another and generally dash up and down without regard for the intersections."

"I hope from now on everybody will be more careful in driving cars or riding bikes off the main streets."

Rok Raiders Use Homemade Bombs

SEOUL (U)—South Korean raiders roasted Red bunkers and trenches with homemade jellied-gasoline bombs today in two hit and run raids.

The troops counted a dozen dead North Koreans and more were believed caught in the scorched bunkers. Only small clashes were reported elsewhere along the west front, soaked by a night of rain.

E. C. Ebert, 66, Dies In Hospital Following Attack

Edward C. Ebert, 66, of 121 N. Washington St., manager of the Pickaway County aid for the aged office, died at 2:45 a. m. Monday in Berger hospital following a heart attack.

Mr. Ebert was widely known in Circleville and Pickaway County for his business ventures and his work in the American Legion.

For many years he operated a confectionery here, later became associated in the Mader and Ebert Funeral Home. He had been manager of the aid for aged office here several years.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Ebert several times was commander of the Circleville American Legion post and was past-commander in the county. He also was active in the veterans group which directs activities of Memorial Hall.

Mr. Ebert was born Jan. 30, 1887, in Circleville, son of Edward K. and Lena Mader Ebert. He was graduated by Circleville schools. He also was graduated by the Cincinnati School of Embalming.

On Oct. 19, 1919, he married Mazie Palm, who survives. A 150 surviving him are two sons, Edward C. Ebert Jr. of Circleville and William E. Ebert of Cincinnati; a brother Carl Ebert, of Cincinnati; a sister, Mrs. Russell Beck, of Columbus; and four grandchildren.

He was a member of Trinity Lutheran church and served 51 years in the church's senior choir.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in Trinity Lutheran church with the Rev. George Troutman officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery, with Legion members as pall bearers.

Circleville's Hall-Adkins post will hold memorial services for the past-commander at its regular meeting Wednesday evening.

Friends may call in Mader Chapel after Tuesday noon. Members of the Circleville Elks Lodge will call in the chapel at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

pretended as a move to bring Eisenhower together with Malenkov for U. S.-sponsored talks. The committee went ahead with the Czech charges, however.

Eisenhower said last week he would meet any real peace overtures from the Russians halfway.

Soviet propaganda since Stalin's death has emphasized the possibility of peaceful relations with the West, and the usual constant Russian talk of American and Western "warmongers" has been shelved, at least for the present.

Delegates here are in a state of watchful hope (with the emphasis, as one Westerner stressed, on the "watchful") over the new Soviet line. They say a real clue to Russia's intentions may come after Vishinsky returns here.

VISHINSKY hurried home after Stalin's death and is the first high-ranking Soviet diplomat to come out of Moscow since Malenkov took over. The Russian talk of peace has stepped up as Vishinsky, former foreign minister and now chief Soviet delegate here, has moved Westward toward New York.

The Soviet UN delegation has tried constantly to delay action on important questions until his return, obviously on Moscow's orders.

Polar set the stage for a possible appeal for the Eisenhower-Malenkov meeting by asking the Assembly Political Committee to hold up debate on two highly controversial items—Czechoslovak charges that the U. S. is spying and meddling behind the Iron Curtain and U. S. demands for a UN inquiry to clear it of germ warfare charges in Korea.

Auxiliary Police Meeting Scheduled

Another meeting to reorganize Circleville's auxiliary police under civilian auspices will be held at 8 p. m. Tuesday in City Council Chambers.

Officer Charles Smith, assigned to direct the auxiliary police organization, urges all persons interested in the plan be present for the session.

"We want to get this thing rolling," Smith said, "and as soon as we're organized enough we can have somebody from the civil defense organization step in and tell us just what the situation is."

Toy Locomotive, Little Finger Give Firemen Difficult Task

Seven-year old Karen Wilson became so attached to a locomotive Sunday that city firemen had to work 25 minutes before they could pry her loose.

The locomotive was a toy in the Wilson home on Fay Ave. in the Isaac Addition, Circleville Township.

And a popular toy it was, too. So popular, in fact, that Karen jammed her little finger of her left hand down its tin smokestack beyond the second knuckle, and then couldn't get her hand free again.

The child's worried parents decided to bring her to the fire station, where the problem became one of using a metal cutting tool without aggravating the finger injury. Karen's finger by that time had swollen and was slightly cut.

The locomotive had been pulled loose in the Wilson home, but a small metal ring from its stack held tight about the finger.

FIREMEN USED ice to reduce the swelling and then, bit by bit, snipped at the metal ring until it fell free.

"Karen's a brave little girl," firemen said. "She hardly cried at all, and boy that must have been painful!"

Firemen had much other business over the weekend, beginning with three calls Saturday.

At 11:15 a. m. Saturday they extinguished a grass fire along Springhollow drive, and at 1:50 p. m. checked a similar blaze on the property of George Rose near Ringgold.

Burning ties along tracks of the Norfolk and Western Railway near W. Main St. resulted in the other Saturday alarm at 9:30 p. m.

At 8:30 a. m. Sunday, a fire scare was investigated in the home of Mrs. E. A. Brown of E. Main St. At 11:35 p. m., a short circuit in a floor plug was investigated at 507 S. Court St.

Newberry County Sheriff Tom Fellers arrested Frank Penny of nearby Prosperity. A bloody shirt, coat and pants were found at his house, where he was sleeping when picked up.

Fellers said a three-foot piece of stovewood was used in the killings. He said the motive was not known.

Yule Committee Meeting To Be Held Tuesday

Representatives of all of Circleville's clubs and social groups have been invited to a special meeting of a Christmas committee at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in Council chamber of Council Hall.

The special meeting has been called to formulate plans for decorating the city this Yule season and to decide upon a fund-raising program.

Mayor Ed Amey, who organized the committee at request of the Chamber of Commerce, said the amount of money collected by the committee will determine the extent of this year's city decorations.

"At the same time," the Mayor said, "the money is to be used to purchase permanent-type decorations which may be used annually."

The committee was suggested by the Chamber as a solution to the local decoration program. The Chamber was criticized last Christmas for failing to provide extensive decorations in the downtown section.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has cause to wonder whether everyone in the State Department, besides being loyal to the country, is loyal to him.

Sen. McCarthy claims to have enough information about the department's inner workings in at least one case—that of Charles E. Bohlen—to call Dulles untruthful. Because the 48-year-old Bohlen, with 24 years' foreign experience, is one of the department's best specialists on Russia, President Eisenhower and Dulles decided to send him to Moscow as American ambassador.

Since Bohlen couldn't have the job unless the Senate approved, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would have to check on him first. This meant Bohlen and Dulles would have to answer questions on Bohlen's background and fitness.

But for some unexplained reason, which originated before Dulles' time as secretary, Bohlen had never been investigated by the FBI. Several weeks ago Dulles asked the FBI to examine Bohlen's life.

He got the report last week and discussed it with R. W. Scott McLeod, who is in charge of security matters for the State Department. Dulles hired McLeod only a few weeks ago.

Before that McLeod had been administrative assistant to Sen. Bridges, New Hampshire Republican, who, with McCarthy and Sen. McCarran, Nevada Democrat, have been the main opponents to Senate approval of Bohlen.

The FBI reports all the information, good and bad, which it picks up on a person under investigation. But the FBI draws no conclusions. It leaves that to a high official, like Dulles, in the department where the investigated man works.

So Dulles went before the foreign relations committee. He didn't show the report to the members. He summarized it for them, saying the report contained some derogatory information about Bohlen.

But none of it, he told the committee, was of the kind that could throw doubt on Bohlen as a loyalty or security risk. After questioning Dulles for three hours, and talking with Bohlen, the committee unanimously approved Bohlen.

Dulles said that when McLeod looked over the FBI report and found the derogatory information he had told Dulles: "This is not a case which I can automatically pass because wherever there is derogatory information of this sort I think it is my duty to bring it to your attention."

Dulles told a news conference later that there was no difference of opinion between him and McLeod on Bohlen and, in answer to a question, he said McLeod did not suggest that Bohlen not be approved.

This is where McCarthy steps into the picture. Until this point McCarthy, McCarran and Bridges had argued against Bohlen mainly because he had worked so closely with former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and had taken part in the Yalta and Potsdam conferences as interpreter.

McCarthy, McCarran and Bridges are not members of the foreign relations committee, before which

Imitator Has One Frustration—He Just Can't Tinkle Like Bell

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Milano is perhaps the only man in the world who can make a sound like a flying saucer.

"It takes off with a strange whistling, whining noise, like this—00z00z00z00z—then it becomes supersonic, and you can't hear it," he said.

Milano is firmly convinced flying saucers do exist, they are not of this planet, and it is high time us earth people came to terms with them.

"They are not hallucinations," he insisted. "I have seen one myself, and my wife has seen several."

Frank's ability to imitate the sound of a flying saucer stems from a highly educated set of vocal chords that earn him $35,000 to $50,000 a year. He is one of the nation's few professional animal imitators and vocal effects artists.

Milano, a pleasant, mild-mannered ex-actor, drifted into his specialty by accident. But today radio and television would be hard put to do without him. He does the voice effects for half a dozen programs, ranging from a pup on the Rottie Kazootie show to a live parrot on the Bill Goodwin show.

"I can imitate anything from a cricket to a roaring lion," Frank said. "I've been a gorilla, an elephant, a burro, Rip Van Winkle's dog, and even a mosquito."

He has also been the voice of a motor boat with a sense of humor, a wayward bus, a jet-propelled spoon, and an automobile starter with a rundown battery. Oh, yes, he also was a rice krispie for a while. His "snap, crackle and pop" performance in that role is, of course, now a part of theatrical history—like Hamlet.

"I like imitating mechanical gadgets," Frank said. "Right now I'm playing the part of a washing machine—chug, chug, gluggle, gluggle. I can also make a sound like a squadron of talking airplanes, but none of the airlines will buy it for a commercial. They say it's too frightening."

The animals he hates most to imitate are bears. Scratches his vocal chords.

"Animal battles—two stallions fighting it out, or a mountain lion fighting a horse—are hard on my throat, too," he said. "I guess I like to do dogs best. There are only two kinds of dog barks, big dog barks and little dog barks."

"Dogs have been very important in my career. Some day I'd like to retire and raise them. I owe them a lot."

Frank takes his art seriously, goes to endless lengths to be certain his sounds are realistic. His toughest assignment was to imitate a talking eagle.

"I haunted the zoo for days, but the eagles wouldn't talk, although I tried 300 different sounds on them trying to get them to answer," he said. "Finally, during a trip to the country, I heard a couple of eagles screeching at night. I got out of bed and screeched back at them until I had the sound down pat."

All great artists have their sorrows, and Frank has his. There is one sound he has never been able to imitate.

"I can't tinkle like a bell," he said. "I have tried and tried, but I can't make it. So far as I know nobody can. If you could vocalize like a bell—well, you'd really have something, wouldn't you?"

Modern Farm Scene Of Many Fire Hazards

Today's farm has all the fire hazards of a machine shop, factory, gasoline station and paint shop combined!

That fact was emphasized in a warning issued in connection with Spring "clean-up" activities directed toward bringing about a more fire-safe community.

Today's mechanized farm makes wide use of gasoline-operated machinery and electrical equipment, all of which have created many new fire hazards that must be safeguarded against by the farmer and his employees.

It addition, farm fires frequently result in almost total loss.

Unlike buildings in urban areas, where fire protection and water supplies are adequate, those in farm areas are often completely destroyed when they catch fire.

Probers Opening Another Series

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities opens an investigation today of Communist infiltration in education, radio, film, television, newspaper, legal and medical fields.

A committee member, Rep. Donald L. Jackson (R-Calif.), said the group would seek to "clean up loose ends" left after a subcommittee inquiry last fall.

British Arrest 2,487 Natives

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—British-led troops and police arrested 2,487 suspected Mau Mau terrorists in sweeping week-end raids. Six tribesmen were killed and six others wounded in scattered clashes during the roundup.

Most of the Kikuyu and Embu tribesmen were picked up because they lacked passes issued last week.

New A-Test Said Coming Tuesday

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Another atomic blast is indicated for Tuesday on the nearby Nevada desert. The Atomic Energy Commission called a press conference for today. The past pattern in nuclear tests on Yucca Flat has been: press conference one day, bomb explosion the next unless the weather was unfavorable.

Meanwhile, 53 of the nation's top experts on atomic energy begin today a series of meetings that will continue through Thursday.

Circleville and this city's famed native son, Ted Lewis, both were mentioned recently in Ed Sullivan's column in the New York Sunday News.

The mention was in connection with Ohio's sesquicentennial celebration, to which the column was devoted.

Police Chief Dies

LORAIN (AP)—Funeral services are scheduled tentatively for Wednesday for Paul Allen Cleaver, 50, Lorain police chief who died Sunday. A native of Harrison in Hamilton County, he had been on the Lorain force 24 years.

Dulles testified. After the unanimous vote for Bohlen, McCarran said Dulles had misrepresented the situation to the committee, that McLeod, instead of not differing with Dulles, had actually told him he "could no clear" Bohlen.

McCarthy said the same thing, adding that what Dulles had told the committee about himself and McLeod was untrue. And, he said, he knew what was in Bohlen's file.

Since the FBI investigation was not made until after the Eisenhower administration took office, McCarthy must have meant he knew what was in Bohlen's regular personnel file, although he didn't say how he knew.

He went beyond this, though, by saying there were 16 pages of derogatory information about Bohlen in the FBI report. This might have been told him in some form by a senator who was on the foreign relations committee and heard Dulles testify.

But McCarthy also said that Bohlen was a bad security risk. He didn't explain (A) how he and McCarran knew Dulles and McLeod differed and (B) how he could be so positive that the FBI files, which he wasn't supposed to see and didn't actually say he saw, proved Bohlen a bad security risk.

SENSIBLE EDUCATOR

MANY EDUCATORS ARE perturbed by inquiries into Communism in public schools. Not so Mrs. Millicent McIntosh, president of Barnard college. She was asked by her students if she thought teachers had a right to refuse to answer questions about Communist affiliations and whether a Communist had a right to teach in the public schools.

Mrs. McIntosh said teachers ought to answer questions about Communist affiliations by compulsion, if need be. They have a moral responsibility to answer and educators will not "help the cause of education or liberal thought if they consider themselves apart from the usual responsibilities of citizens."

She said Communists had no right to teach in schools because they distort the truth. Many students are mature enough to listen to such teaching without harm. Others would accept anything the teacher said as gospel and their minds would be warped by the teaching.

This educator endorses the main purpose of current probes into Communism in education, which is to uproot any Communism which may be in the schools. In this she shows good sense. Communism is so abhorrent to the overwhelming majority of Americans that sincere educators, with good public relations in mind, ought to support the effort to oust Communists from schools in New York City and other places where they are known to be.

HOW ARE YOUR BRAKES?

ONE FACTOR IN traffic safety which has not been accorded sufficient importance is operation of mechanically defective automobiles. Cars involved in fatal accidents are frequently found to have defective brakes, lights or unbalanced wheels. Ask the operator of any parking lot who moves scores of cars every day how many he finds with adequate brakes. "Too few" will be his answer.

Here is one cause of traffic deaths which can and must be eliminated. Thousands of cars are on the streets and highways every day which should be in repair shops.

Safety officials, city, state and federal, labor unceasingly to lower the traffic death rate, with little to show for their efforts. Their task is complicated by many factors, including drunken drivers, speeders and a general inclination to disobey the laws.

How are your brakes?

These Days

The theory of the Civil Service is that employees of the Government of the United States, not on the policy-making level, could be taken out of politics and put on a permanent basis of employment and advancement without dependence on political preferment. Each candidate for such a position is required to take a written examination; he is required to satisfy the Civil Service Commission as to his character and loyalty and general suitability for the particular post.

President Truman perverted the Civil Service system by covering large numbers of deserving Democrats by Civil Service benefits who have not taken the necessary examinations and whose virtues have not been duly determined by fitting investigation. They were folded into the Civil Service by Executive Order. It would seem fitting and proper that all such might immediately be thrown out by the Eisenhower Administration, not only with the object of making room for deserving Republicans but also to reduce the unbearable payroll of the Federal Government.

There ought to be no problem about that, as General Eisenhower himself said that government employment is not a right but a privilege. Some Democrats and many Left-Wingers regard a government job as a human right and they hop from one public office to another with amazing agility, managing to hold on to some bit of the payroll despite exposure of their defects. The United States would suffer no loss if they were sent forth to work at earning a living instead of just getting one. Some of them get jobs in the United Nations or the Ford Foundation.

The Eisenhower Administration has been too gentle in the matter of ridding the country of an unnecessary officialdom, although, for nearly 20 years, the Republicans have made a tremendous noise about the size of government employment, which now reaches the unbelievable figure of 2.5 million. Anyone who has ever tried to be serviced in a government office has had a wonderful experience in slow motion, with the hired help getting in each other's way for want of something to do.

The huge government payroll started as a relief measure during the Depression years, the theory being that made-work justified itself in hard times. The jobs were developed to make work, and even if a typist devoted herself to writing letters to prospective or imaginary boy friends, it was considered better than a dole.

Also, under the New Deal, a system of grading developed by which the importance of an official was measured in terms of the number of persons under him. Thus a smart public servant permitted his department to grow big so that he would look important. This device was so usual that it was given a special name, "empire-building."

Thus, Federal employment rose from a slight 615,000 in 1932 to about 2.5 million today. Mr. Roosevelt was never as expansive in peace years as Mr. Truman, his highest figure being 1.4 million for 1941. (Continued on Page Seven)

The Reluctant Cinderella

by JENNIFER AMES

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
AFTER Derek had gone, Jason emerged from the kitchenette grinning. "You've certainly got him going. Just as well I made myself scarce. But it was rather like a good old French farce, although in them the lover usually pops into a closet." His lean face sobered. "Carol, you be a sensible girl and concentrate on Derek. And now I'll leave you to get dressed."

She thrust the few dollars she had into his hand. "Take this, Jason. I won't need any money until I'm paid tomorrow."

He hesitated. "All right, but it's a loan, darling."

"And don't forget if you do want a bed..." Her voice died away. She found she was suffering acutely from embarrassment and she hadn't felt embarrassed when they had discussed it before.

"No, darling," he said, "that's just one of those things I'm not going to do. You can resist temptation, but it's wisest not to stick your neck out. And—you're rather lovely. Did you know that, my sweet?"

He bent and kissed her forehead. "Good luck, Jason," she whispered.

"Good luck to you, darling," he smiled, but this time there was no mockery in it; his hand squeezed her arm again and then he was gone. The room seemed empty afterwards and her feeling of extreme tiredness returned. It was an effort to start getting dressed up to go to the dance with Derek.

As Derek drove Carol up before the Breakers, she saw some couples dancing out on the patio. Light streamed through the glass windows of the veranda ballroom mingling with the moonlight. Vaguely, along with the dance music, she could hear the swish of the breakers beating against the sea wall in front of the hotel. A lovely setting, atmosphere, color, music...

As they walked across the grass, she told herself how lucky she was to be here with Derek. His white dinner jacket emphasized his dark good looks, and he had his hand under her elbow possessively. But somehow she couldn't keep her attention on him or what he was saying; she kept glancing about, instinctively looking for someone. She noticed the huge palms standing near the sea wall. It was by one of the palms that Jason was to meet Julie.

"Are you looking for anyone, Carol?"

"No, I—Julie told me she was coming tonight."

"Good. She's a nice kid." She laid her short white angora jacket on a chair and they danced. The Tennessee Waltz, the same tune they'd danced to on the boat. She remembered the pleasure dancing with him had given her. Life that night had seemed full of thrilling and romantic possibilities. She tried to recapture the feeling, but somehow it eluded her. men and women dancing, the bursts of laughter, the chatter at the tables where guests sat drinking didn't help that cold sense of fear; the feeling that events were moving fast, faster than she dared think of to some climax, gave her a real sense of terror.

"What's the matter? Are you cold? You're shivering," he said. "Shall we go inside?"

"No, I like it out here."

His hand moved down her bare arm slowly. "You are cold. We'll go inside after this dance."

They were sitting at one of the small tables inside the dance room when Derek said, "Thelma phoned while I was dressing tonight."

"Yes?"

"I told her I couldn't get back to New York. I said we were opening up a new shop. I thought it might be an excuse, and even if she didn't believe me, I thought it might show her," he hesitated, "how I felt."

"It didn't?"

He smiled bleakly. "No. Then I took your suggestion and said that if she wanted to see me for her to come down to Palm Beach."

"She's coming?"

"Yes, but not here. Apparently she knows of a small hotel in Vero Beach, Driftwood Inn. She's going there."

"When?"

"In a few days. I'll have to see her, but you know what I said last night, Carol?" He lowered his voice. "I'd be grateful if you'd come too."

She made a faint grimace. "She wouldn't like that."

"No, but," his hand reached for hers under the table, "I'll like it. I want her to know how I feel about you."

"Technically, she's still my boss," Carol murmured. "She could make things very unpleasant for me when I go back."

"But you're not going back. You know that, don't you, darling?" His hold on her hand tightened. "Vero Beach is not more than an hour and a half's drive. You'll come, Carol?" We've got to get this thing straightened out."

"But how can I go during the week?" she murmured. "I'll be working."

He smiled slightly again. "I'm your boss now, darling."

That darling again. Suddenly, in an unreasonable way, she hated him for saying it. He seemed to be taking it for granted she would marry him too. And I'd be a fool if I didn't, she told herself. Who ever heard of Cinderella turning down the Prince when he came with the glass slipper?

A group of latecomers were passing their table. Among them Carol noticed Julie clinging to her husband's arm. She was looking straight ahead and apparently she didn't see them. Carol thought she looked pale and her slight body tense.

She was beautifully gowned in off-white tulle. The emerald and diamond necklace around her throat, the emerald and diamond studs in her ears, emphasized her dark attractiveness. She was easily the most strikingly dressed woman in the room and she carried herself with an air of sophisticated hauteur. Carol smiled faintly, wondering what the girls at Felton's would think of Miss Moore of Model Hats if they could see her now. Undoubtedly they'd envy her, but Carol didn't envy Julie Gallet.

"Julie looks pretty snazzy tonight," Derek commented. "But if I were a girl, I don't think I'd care to be married to Ben Gallet."

"You don't like him?"

He grimaced slightly. "Those people they're with are mixed up with the Miami gambling rackets. Probably they're staying with the Gallets."

"But you seemed pretty friendly with Maxie yesterday," she commented.

"When you're in business, you've got to be friendly. Besides, it's always easier to take the big boss than a subordinate. Most everyone around these parts accepts Maxie."

It was warm inside the room, but Carol felt colder than she had outside in the garden.

The band was playing again. "Harbour Lights. One of my favorites," Derek said. "Let's dance, Carol."

Applauding for an encore, they were standing close to Julie and Ben. Ben bowed, formally; so did Julie. They didn't speak.

"What's up?" Derek asked, as they began dancing again. "Don't tell me you've quarreled with your girl friend?"

"No. She was in the shop today and I sold her quite a few numbers." But she, too, had been hurt by the formal recognition.

"I think I'll go and powder," she murmured as the dance ended.

She took her evening bag off the table and started down a long corridor that led to the main lounge. Derek had told her that Thelma was coming down to Vero Beach, within an hour or so's drive from Palm Beach. Would that knowledge help Jason?

She walked through the Garden. The sudden chill wind had driven all the guests inside. In the yellow darkness she saw a tall waiter standing by an unoccupied table. He had his back to her, but even his back view was familiar. She stood still suddenly; then looked quickly around and went towards him.

"Jason!"

He turned sharply. He grinned down at her. "Hello, darling."

"What are you doing in that waiter's uniform?"

"Pretty natty, don't you think?" He was still grinning.

"Where did you get it and why?"

"One of the boys here is English. I got to talking with him the other day and tonight I asked him to lend me one of his jackets. I thought I'd be less conspicuous hanging around in this garb."

Bennett Cerf's Try, Stop Me

A young miss was wildly in love with a pilot in Korea, and mooned about him so that her poor parents were beside themselves. "He may be able to fly a jet," grumbled the father, "but judging by the excerpts you've read us from his letters he's the mushiest sap who ever came down the pike." "But, Papa," protested the daughter, "listen to this one and maybe you'll change your mind: Last night as I lay in my bunk, your dear face suddenly appeared before me. When I saw those luminous, trusting eyes, and your luscious, soft lips, I vowed that I would be worthy of your love. The air suddenly seemed purer and a beam of moonlight pierced the clouds and shone on my pillow—" "Stop!" roared Father. "That's the worst drivel yet!" The daughter calmly handed the letter to her mother. "It was so nice of you to let me read what Papa sent you while he was fighting in World War I."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, March 23—Despite professions of good cheer and courage in high places here and abroad, the rapidly deteriorating position of the anti-Russian alliance headed by the United States may yet provoke a Congressional inquiry of our military and economic strength. As against Moscow's monolithic unity, the free nations seem to be falling or breaking apart, as Stalin forecast shortly before his death.

Official and unofficial reports to Capitol Hill are completely contradictory on all factors bearing on the progress of the cold war. In such a hazy atmosphere, as noted by both Republicans and Democrats—Taft and Bridges, Byrd and Symington—it is impossible to enact corrective legislation or to appropriate funds for national and world defense against the Reds.

Not since the first anxious months after Pearl Harbor has Congress been so concerned over national security measures, or the lack of them.

AMMUNITION — Gen. James A. Van Fleet, the man on the firing line in Korea for 22 months maintains that serious shortages of ammunition still exist. But Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as well as civilian heads at the Pentagon, say the opposite.

Addressing NATO chiefs at a military symposium in France, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said: "During the foreseeable future, we shall be short of much of our material. We shall be deficient in many items—critically short in some."

"Critically" is the word military commanders use when they are in desperate straits. It is their technical term with regard to supplies.

But Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Ridgway's chief of staff, painted a rosy picture of NATO's growing strength in a recent report to President Eisenhower.

STRENGTH — Lt. Gen. Curtis P. Le May only added to the confusion in speaking before this same European group. The head of the U. S. Strategic Command bewildered his immediate listeners as well as Capitol Hill.

Promising NATO nations all-out atomic aid in event of a Communist attack, Le May declared that "the Atlantic Alliance's capabilities for punishing peace breakers is greater than all the military power ever assembled from the time of Genghis Khan (1200 A. D.) until today."

This hyperbolic statement contrasts sharply and tragically with Defense Secretary Wilson's shock at discovering how far we lag behind Russia in aerial power, especially modern bombers and jets. Such a fantastic figure as $20 billion has been mentioned as necessary to close the gap over a four-year period.

As if these gloomy citations of Communist versus Democratic strength and chances of survival in a global showdown were not enough, the British Admiralty now admits openly that the Soviet "active" navy on the seven seas, ranking only behind the United States.

By
Ray Tucker

ECONOMIC AID — The world canvass is hardly more hopeful on the economic side, despite the lavish billions the U. S. has contributed to our allies and enemies.

The United Nations Commission for Europe recently reported that the Western European nations are "slipping" industrially. In all the essentials for making war—steel, coal, oil, electricity, etc.—their gains are not comparable to Russia's under the five-year plan. The Commission also questioned whether American aid could ever change the situation, in view of European disunity.

In view of the recent administration change in Washington, our delegates at these international inventories are in no position to promise anything. They cannot commit Eisenhower and Dulles.

And yet, to add to Ike's burdens, the free world is waiting for him to speak or act. Meanwhile, and this factor keeps alive demands for a broad, nonpolitical survey, the Reds are winning the cold war on all fronts.

Informal Dance Is Given At Pickaway Country Club

Approximately 50 Persons Attend

Arrangements of forsythia and candles were used as decorations for the informal dance held Saturday evening for members of the Pickaway Country Club and their out of county guests.

Approximately 50 persons were present for the event held in the club. Committee in charge was composed of Dr. and Mrs. David Goldschmidt, Mr. and Mrs. William Crist and Dr. and Mrs. Mark Huckerriede.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ugle of Newark, Mr. and Mrs. George Speakman of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pie and William Shorr, who are new residents in Circleville.

Thursday at 1 p. m. in the club, a ladies golf luncheon is being planned. Reservations for this event must be made by Tuesday. Mrs. George Crites and Mrs. Luther Bower will have charge of the luncheon.

Price cannot always be depended on as an indication of quality in sheets. Sheet type numbers represent the total number of warp and filler threads per square inch. Muslins are made in 140's, 128's and 112's. The thread count in percales is usually 200 or 180 per square inch. It is difficult to distinguish between these two on the basis of appearance and feel. In both muslin and percale, the higher count is preferable, although the cost is slightly more.

MEATLESS MEALS

By BETTY NEWTON

A good sharp cheese combined with rice and tomatoes is a tasty main dish in a Lenten meal. A salad of fresh fruits served on crisp greens adds a nice contrast in flavor. Green beans, broccoli or peas complete the meal.

Cheese Rice Casserole

1 1/2 C. uncooked rice
1 1/2 C. salad oil
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) tomato puree plus water to make 1 1/2 C.
1 medium onion, chopped
2 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 C. chopped celery
2 shrimps, chopped
1/2 C. chopped stuffed olives
1 Tbsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
Soak beans overnight. Cover. Bring to boil in water in which they were soaked; turn flame to simmer, and cook 1 1/2 hours. Drain. Combine oil with tomato and water mixture and bring to boil. Add remaining ingredients. Mix half of sauce with beans and put in 2 qt. bean pot or casserole. Add rest of sauce. Cover. Bake in gas range at 350 degrees for 30 to 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Cook rice according to package directions. Melt shortening and lightly brown the mushrooms, onion and green pepper. Mix all the ingredients and place in a greased casserole. Bake in gas range at 350 degrees for 30 to 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Try Lima Bean Supreme for a different meatless main dish. The seasonings added to this recipe give a delightful new flavor to a favorite vegetable.

Lima Bean Supreme

1 lb. dried lima beans
1/4 C. salad oil
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) tomato puree plus water to make 1 1/2 C.
1 medium onion, chopped
2 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 C. chopped celery
2 shrimps, chopped
1/2 C. chopped stuffed olives
1 Tbsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
Soak beans overnight. Cover. Bring to boil in water in which they were soaked; turn flame to simmer, and cook 1 1/2 hours. Drain. Combine oil with tomato and water mixture and bring to boil. Add remaining ingredients. Mix half of sauce with beans and put in 2 qt. bean pot or casserole. Add rest of sauce. Cover. Bake in gas range at 350 degrees for 30 to 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

302 ACRES. MADISON COUNTY.

This is one of the best producing farms of the county with an outstanding corn record of 100 bushel average for 1952 on 120 acres; a farm that has shown consistently an attractive income from diversified grain and livestock operation. Owner operated by a farmer who is widely recognized for his progressive methods in keeping with modern farm practice. Land is level, well drained and fenced, all tillable except seven acres of woods. Soil is black and silt loam readily responding to rotation crop farming. Building improvements include a good seven-room, two-story frame dwelling with basement and water under pressure. Electricity and water to barn buildings and lots. Buildings in top condition, of good construction and include a machinery storage building and hog feeding shed with concrete feeding floor; a large barn with overhead storage room (hay), modern farrowing pens, storm shed feeding space of large capacity with crib room for 4000 bushels of corn and granaries with 2500 bushel capacity, also new feed and storage stock barn 40x105 feet. Tractor shed and farm tool workshop. Farm located on a good gravel road one mile from state route with excellent schools, churches and markets close by where the wealth of the community is evidenced by rich farmland of proven record. Present owner buying much larger tract and has priced this fine farm at $285 per acre with spring possession and plowing privileges granted with sale contract. The farm has been personally inspected and approved by Stroop Agricultural Company, 1415 Wilmington Ave., Dayton, Ohio (farm management corporation) as one they would be pleased to manage for a non-resident operator if such service is desired. # Southwest Ohio Again Cops Titles

Middletown Keeps Class A Crown; Mariemont Is King Of B Boys

CINCINNATI (AP)—"Break up the Southwestern District!" may well become the cry in Ohio high school basketball.

For the second straight year the Southwest District, and Butler and Hamilton Counties in particular, have swept the state championship boards.

Middletown's magnificent Middle, winning their fifth state title in 10 years, took the Class A championship with surprising ease in a 7-5 final game victory over Newark, a three-time state champ.

And Mariemont, a Cincinnati suburb, piled up even a bigger score in crushing Philo, 87-44, in the final Class B game. It was Mariemont's first state championship and the Warriors succeeded Wayne High School of Lockland, another Cincinnati suburb, on the Class B throne.

Middletown's championship was its second in a row.

Record-breaking crowds saw two four-team final tournaments in the big Cincinnati Garden. The 12,956 fans who watched the Middletown-Newark game Saturday represented the biggest crowd ever to see a high school game in Ohio.

There were 7,681 fans in the Garden for the Mariemont-Philo game.

The Friday sessions drew 11,28 for the two Class A games and

51 Colleges Due To Share TV Pie

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association is going to slice a million-dollar pie for 51 schools whose football teams appeared on television last year.

That fact emerged from a meeting of the NCAA Executive Committee here today. Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said sponsors of the organization's 1952 controlled football television program paid $1,151,109 to televise 33 "live" games. He said it wasn't known yet just how much each school's share would be.

Cincinnati Seeks Yankee Material

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—General Managers Gabe Paul of the Cincinnati Reds and George Weiss of the New York Yankees huddled before their clubs played an exhibition game here Sunday, adding fuel to reports Paul may be trying to make a deal to buy several highly touted Yankee farmhands.

It's no secret the Reds are searching for more pitching strength. Poor pitching showed up heavily in Sunday's exhibition, which the Yanks won, 13-11.

Worsham, Bolt Pacing Tourney

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Lew Worsham and Tommy Bolt are the men to beat for the top $2,000 in the Jacksonville Open golf tournament today.

Worsham and Bolt stand at 204 going into today's final 18 holes of the 72 hole Jaycee-sponsored event.

If either of them can better 68 he will set a new tournament record here.

CHS Juniors End Season With 4 Wins, 9 Losses

Circleville's junior high school basketball team ended its 1952-53 season with a record of four victories in 13 starts.

Heading the junior Tiger scoring attack during the season was Ed Tomlinson, who registered a total of 229 points for an average of 17.6 per game.

Next high in scoring for the season were Bill Schneider with 54 points, an average of 4.1; and Bill Johnson with 31 points, averaging 3.3.

The juniors this season, coached by Al Gabriel, earned a total of 441 points for an average of 33.9 per game. Their opponents registered 525 for an average of 40.5.

TIGER JUNIORS connected on 23.5 per cent of their free throw attempts this season, completing 114. Circleville's Stogie Club added to the season for the juniors, buying the team new uniforms of black, trimmed in red and white, and a new gray warmup gear.

But neither Newark nor Philo were in the same league with the new champs in the title games. Newark managed to lead a couple of times early in the final game but the Middies started running faster and shooting with greater accuracy to coast in after breaking a nine-all tie.

Owen Lawson was the big man in the Middle attack as he pitched in 10 field goals and a few throw for 21 points. He might have set a new championship game individual scoring if Coach Paul Walker hadn't removed him from the game after the Middies had piled up a huge lead.

Philo's efforts were even more futile against a much bigger Mariemont team. Mariemont, led by six-foot, 11-inch Jerry Weber, practically rewrote the Class B scoring record book.

Weber contributed 36 points and his towering height had Philo almost completely blocked a way from the basket.

So one-sided were the two championship games one was remarked:

"Philo and Newark made the same mistake — they showed up for the games."

Celebrations in the home towns of the teams wasn't confined, however, to Middletown and Mariemont. Motorcades and cheering townspeople greeted the losers as well as the winners.

And the more formal parts of the celebrations — banquets and parties — still are to come.

In winning the title, Middletown finished the season with 24 wins and two lost. Newark's final record was 21-5. Mariemont finished with a 25-2 mark and Philo's was 27-4.

Twenty-three tournament records were set in the two days of play which was held in Cincinnati for the first time.

Middletown and Mariemont did most of the record breaking, of course, but Philo, Newark and Cleveland St. Ignatius also had a hand in changing the record book.

Toledo Fans Picking Name

TOLEDO (AP)—Fans of Toledo's new baseball team today were preferring the nickname "Buckeyes" or "Braves" in a pool conducted by the Toledo Times.

The Times has received 751 suggestions for renaming the old Milwaukee Brewers, including 245 different names. The paper will turn over its findings to whatever committee the owning club, the Boston-Milwaukee Braves, delegates to make the final selection.

One lady came up with "Wal-luperinis." Translated, she said, that means: "Wow! Lou Perini (owner of the Braves)."

However, Mr. Truman, being an amiable gentleman, kindly and respectfully the welfare of deserving Democrats, not only kept the Federal payroll high but folded many into the Civil Service without requiring them to take the usual examinations to prove their fitness.

Those who did take examinations should have whatever protection the Civil Service Law provides, if their jobs are necessary at all. If the jobs are unnecessary, they should be abolished. The United States ought not to be an eleemosynary institution.

The President has appointed a commission to adjust the Hoover Reports to the needs of the Eisenhower Administration. A thoroughgoing plan to reorganize the Executive branch of the government could reduce the payroll. They could also plan to get a dollar's work for a dollar of pay.

This may be a revolutionary doctrine but not an evil one. There is no reason why a government job should produce lazier workers than private enterprise. And workers always work better if they fear the prospect of dismissal.

It is a wonderful cure for those who believe that tenure on a job saves one from the necessity to work.

2-Point Program Rated Best Way To Encourage Teachers

Leaders Recall Warning Here On Shortage

Long Range Salary Schedule Favored In OEA Drive

Circleville's school teachers outlined a two-point program Monday as the "only effective way" to check the nationwide trend of teachers toward better-paying jobs with the government and in private business.

Spokesmen for the group recalled a warning here by City School Superintendent Frank Fischer, who told a Parent-Teacher Association meeting a critical teacher shortage may be "just around the corner" for this community.

Teachers here have asked public support for legislation sponsored in the 100th General Assembly by the Ohio Education Association. It is one of three bills seeking increased funds for education in Ohio.

In its latest statement urging public support for Senate Bill 22, the OEA measure, Circleville School Teachers' Association said: "Ohio's legislature can end the teacher shortage promptly by converting the present unrealistic salary minimum teachers' salary schedule into one which will provide the only effective way to check the loss of teachers from our schools. This can be accomplished by doing two things:

"FIRST, GIVE assurance to new teachers that they can expect gradually increased income over a long period of years provided they make teaching a lifetime career. The present schedule provides increases for only five years.

"In many districts, this means that teachers reach maximum pay for their careers at the end of five years ($2,900 for a teacher with a bachelor's degree). The result is that half or more of the new teachers are quitting their jobs within the five-year period.

"OEA proposes extending the schedule to from 10 to 16 years. A fully-trained teacher with a bachelor's degree could expect yearly pay increases of $100 for a 16-year period.

"Second, increase the starting minimums slightly to enable less wealthy districts to compete for new teachers on a fairer basis.

"Under the minimum schedule, a district is able to offer a fully-trained new teacher only $2,400 to start. They are unable to hire teachers when other districts in Ohio and neighboring states are offering beginning salaries of $3,000 and higher."

GOP Leaders Debate When To Kill RFC

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of Congress' banking committees say the Reconstruction Finance Corporation should be kept in existence until mid-1954, not abolished at the end of this year.

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich) of the House Banking Committee said he is not "wedded" to any one plan for the big government lending agency but is more inclined to follow the present law. This bars any new loans by RFC after June 30, 1954.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind) of the Senate Banking Committee, in a CBS-TV interview yesterday, agreed that the present law should be followed.

Interviews with Wolcott and other House sources yesterday indicated the Republicans generally agree on wiping out the agency, but disagree as to when and how to do it. A Senate bill now pending would abolish RFC Jan. 1.

Ashville Cubs Stage Annual Kite Contest

Cub Scouts of Ashville Pack 130 held their annual "kit derby" Sunday afternoon in Ashville's Community Park.

Prizes were awarded during the session for the kite flying the highest, steady, and kite showing best workmanship.

All kites in the competition were made by the Cubs and their fathers.

Award for best workmanship was won by Johnny Seymour, whose kite was decorated in dragons, shields and the motto "Always Be Prepared." Second prize was awarded to Jimmy Cooper, and third was won by Curtis Farmer.

HIGHEST-flying honors for the day were won by Tommy Rathburn, Phillip Reese and Jimmy Cooper.

Award prizes for steady flying were won by Eugene Founds, Billy Reed and Rodney Hoover.

Dubious distinction of having their kite to be the first to plummet into a tree was won by Michael Courtwright and his father, James Courtwright.

Judges for the contest were Mayor Raymond Lindsey and Captain M. E. Mumme of Lockbourne Air Force Base.

Civilian Defense Needs Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two government leaders, citing last week's televised atomic tests in Nevada, are urging the American people to do more for civil defense.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the Democratic leader, said the tests convinced him neither military nor civil defenses are yet ready.

Val Peterson, federal civil defense administrator, said on a television program the nation has done fairly well, considering the size of the job, but must "do a lot better."

Ohio Assembly Faces Several Major Issues

Highway Safety, Relief Publication Bills Slated For Voting

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—The Ohio Legislature headed into a typical mid-session work week today. Top floor vote of the week likely will be in the House on a bill to create a new state department of highway safety.

Other important legislative developments are likely to include: Senate Finance Committee approval of a Republican policy bill to make public the names of those receiving public assistance.

House Finance Committee approval of the Senate-passed bill to give the highway department $15 million dollars for any early start on important highway projects.

Probable reconsideration in the House of a bill defeated last week to require annual inspections of motor vehicles. If reconsidered, the bill probably will be returned to committee for repairs.

House Education Committee approval of a Republican policy bill to increase the public school subsidy to 225 million dollars, up about 18 millions from the total granted by the last Legislature.

Hearings will continue on Gov. Frank J. Lausche's $31 million dollar budget for the next two years; on truck and gasoline taxes to boost highway construction funds; to tighten narcotics laws; to improve rural telephone service.

vice and to revise the formula on which Ohio's utility rates are based.

The special seven-member Senate Investigating Committee which will probe reports of mistreatment and maladministration at the Cambridge State Hospital has scheduled its first meeting tonight. Its chairman is Sen. Ralph Humphrey (R-Ashtabula).

The bill to create the new highway safety department, which would have a director of Cabinet status, is opposed by officials of the State Highway Patrol. The Patrol would be a part of the new department.

Fred Moritz, deputy superintendent of the patrol, says a split in the present highway department would separate the patrol from the department with which its work is most closely allied.

Director of the new department would have authority over the patrol and would be registrar of motor vehicles as well in addition to administering the Ohio motorists' financial responsibility law which became effective March 1.

Floor votes scheduled today were on only minor legislation.

Included is a proposal by Rep. Guy Campbell (R-Athens) to authorize construction of a sewer across Athens State Hospital land. It is needed to enable the City of Athens to comply with state anti-pollution laws.

Botts In Line For Marshal Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) says Howard C. Botts of Wilmington will be nominated U. S. Marshal for Southern Ohio today.

Botts is a former Clinton County sheriff and has been in state and local government service since 1920. He is 55.

Yankee Aid Abroad Hiked During 1952

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. aid to friendly countries increased 10 per cent in 1952 while their payments to the U. S. went up more than 25 per cent, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

It gave these figures: Total U. S. aid to the free world in 1952 was $5,578,000,000, compared with $5,074,000,000 in 1951. Of the 1952 total $2,738,000,000 was military aid, nearly double the 1951 figure of $1,484,000,000.

Returns on aid—repayment of loans and reverse aid such as land for U. S. military installations—amounted to 574 million dollars in 1952, as against 452 million in 1951.

The net U. S. foreign aid figure in 1952 was thus $5,004,000,000. It was $4,622,000,000 in 1951.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The top Patsy award, roughly equivalent among animal actors to the screen Oscar among humans, is still in the cat family.

A movie lion named Jackie was awarded first-place Patsy yesterday in a third annual contest sponsored by the American Humane Association. "Patsy" stands for Picture Animal Top Star of the Year.

Winners were chosen in a poll of more than 500 columnists, editors and critics throughout the nation.

Jackie won for his performance in the film "Fearless Fagan."
